BLUE AND GRAY AGAIN GATHER IN GETTYSBURG

This Time Old Soldiers Are Comrades Instead of Civil War Enemies.

IT'S THEIR LAST REUNION

Peace in Their Hearts as They Converge at Site of Worst Battle of Conflict.

(By United Press)

GETTYSBURG, Pa.—Two aged armies came back to the battlefield at Gettysburg for the last time today with the sound of dusty drums in their ears but with peace in their hearts.

They came—veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic and the men of Robert E. Lee—for a final reunion in the little Blue Ridge foothills town to which weary soldiers trudged 75 years ago in search of shoes and where they found, instead, the bloodiest battle of the Civil war.

Some In Old Uniforms.

Many of them had been here before. A few of them clanked through the little diamond-shaped business district in dusty blue and gray uniforms long ago when their cheeks were as smooth as the ripe peaches which they saw shaken to the ground by the rumble of artillery.

Hundreds more toiled slowly across the battlefield in 1913 on the 50th anniversary of Lee's vain bid for victory. Today there were less than 2,000 converging on the spot where James Gettys stopped his ox cart in 1780 at the end of his search for a fertile, peaceful farm.

They will not come again. This 75th anniversary reunion is the last, and Gettysburg—which once trembled at the clump of soldier boots along her dust-white pikes—welcomed Confederate and Union veterans with a sunburst of flags in which the stars and bars shook in the sunlight beside Old Glory.

Program Opens Friday.

All of yesterday the advance guard drifted in from the west, the south, the northeast, and soon after dawn this morning they were coming in full strength by special train, by bus and by automobile.

The program, opening officially on Friday with ceremonies in the Gettysburg college stadium, will be climaxed by an address by President Roosevelt when he unveils the $60,000 Eternal Light Peace memorial on a hillside overlooking the battlefield.

Royal Guest III

Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, who came to the U. S. to participate with President Roosevelt in ceremonies at Wilmington, Del., marking the tercentenary of the landing of the first Swedish colonists, and then had to stay aboard ship because of a kidney ailment, is shown in bed in his stateroom in a cheerful mood. The Swedish king-to-be was removed to a New York hospital for medical attention.

LABOR HEARING DRAWS TO CLOSE

Testimony Ended, Examiner to Inspect Records of Ohio Brass This Afternoon.

With both sides completing testimony this morning, hearing of unfair labor practice charges brought against the Ohio Brass company following the discharge of Tony Colace a casting grinder, was expected to reach a conclusion this afternoon.

Records concerning company operations in interstate commerce were to be introduced at the resumption of the hearing this afternoon. This was all that remained to be completed, attorneys informed Trial Examiner Albert L. Lohm.

Testimony taken during the three-day hearing will be taken under advisement by the examiner who will later submit his recommendations to the National Labor Relations board for final decision.

Last of the witnesses called this morning by the company in support of its claim that Colace was discharged for proper reasons and not because of his activity in behalf of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers' union, was Frank E. Bair, plant superintendent.

Bair testified that several times previous to Colace's discharge in November, 1937, Colace's foreman had recommended his discharge because of failure to co-operate. Bair said he did not immediately act on the discharge request.

PENSIONS FOR AGED DELAYED

State Auditor Says Deficiency In Funds Holds Up Checks.

A transfer of state funds as a result of a deficiency in the general revenue fund will cause a delay in the forwarding of pension checks to 1,300 aged residents of Richland county for June, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson announced today.

Predicting that outstanding bills cannot be met until August, Ferguson said employes of welfare departments in 22 counties, as well as pensioners, will have to wait for their June checks. The amount due Richland county pensioners is $25,357.

AGREES TO END DEADLOCK OV... RELIEF PLANS

Lawrence, Dem Floor Leader in Senate, Agrees to Meet House 'Half Way.'

CALLS FRIDAY SESSION

Acts After Conference With Davey and Speaker; House Summoned for Tomorrow.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — Majority Floor Leader Keith Lawrence of the Ohio senate announced today that he was willing to meet the house half way in the present relief deadlock and to call the senate back into session at Columbus Friday.

Lawrence scheduled a meeting with Speaker Frank R. Uible of the house to notify him of new terms for a peace agreement. Uible sent out telegrams calling house members back to Columbus Thursday afternoon.

Split Over Percentage.

The relief deadlock arose out of the senate's insistence that political subdivisions should not be allowed to borrow more than 70 per cent of anticipated revenues from taxes earmarked for relief. The house, contending 70 per cent was inadequate, sought to permit borrowing up to 90 per cent.

Lawrence said he was willing to compromise at "not more than 80 per cent."

The senate leader said he would demand in return that the house pass his bill to permit cities to borrow on their 1939 liquor and beer permit receipts to secure local funds for matching. The house rejected this measure, 70 to 23, last week.

Davey Confident.

Gov. Martin L. Davey met with Lawrence and Uible last night in an attempt to iron out the relief situation and expressed confidence that the way soon would be cleared for action.

"I think everything is going to work out all right," the governor said after their initial conversation. "Everything is harmonious and lovely."

He observed, however, that "some details" still were to be ironed out.

Lawrence issued a formal statement yesterday which said "if past differences are forgotten and members of both houses will co-operate and adopt a conciliatory attitude, a definite program could be enacted within the next week."

Boosts Estimate of Relief Program.

An upward revision of revenue estimates indicated today that the house-rejected Ohio poor relief program would have produced ap-

'MODEL CITY'

City Jail Has No Prisoners, No Arrests in Two Days.

Mansfield was a "model city" today with no prisoners in city jail and no arrests reported in two days. It was the first time this year the jail has been empty.

The jail doors have been open for two days, ever since George L. Lawrence, Chicago, was taken to the county jail Monday to serve a 90-day sentence for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Police records show there hasn't been one arrest made in nearly 48 hours. Even the complaints registered have been few and far between.

The "calm" had its effect in municipal court too, where there hasn't been any criminal cases on the docket for the past two days and attaches were able to give all their attention to the civil cases which have clogged the court for the past several months.

'Cement Coffin' Murder Scene and Suspect

While Massachusetts authorities sought to solve the mystery of the "cement coffin" murder case, in which Charles Morris, 48, race track follower, was the victim, they held John Paul Bathelt, jr., of New York, husband of a Park avenue heiress. At the top is shown the cottage in which Morris' body, encased in a cement block, was believed to have been hidden, before it was thrown in the Connecticut river near South Hadley, Mass. Bathelt, 27, uncanny picker of winning race horses, and one-time associate of Morris, is shown (center) in the lower picture. He gave himself up when he learned he was sought for questioning. He was charged with murder yesterday but protested his innocence.

Six-Member Professorial Board Scores 'Irregularities' In Department; Duffy Hints at Investigation; Davey Administration Hit.

MADE JOBS AT ELECTION TIME

The state highway department and the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company entered into an illegal road paving contract in Seneca county involving $66,000, the six-man board of college professors investigating the Ohio highway department had reported today, as they brought to light "serious irregularities and political manipulations" in the department, dispatches from Columbus said today.

The contract was illegal, the board reported, because (1) plans were not prepared for the project; (2) an estimate was prepared but it was not approved by the director (John J. Jaster, jr.); (3) plans and estimates were not legally published; and (4) the successful bidders were not required to execute a formal written contract.

That was only one of the findings of the board, which listed both favorable and unfavorable disclosures.

Meanwhile, Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy today asked the six-man board for a copy of their report, indicating that he would study it for possible action against the highway department and its officials.

It seemed likely, Columbus dispatches indicated, that the report of the board would be used as ammunition in the present political campaign. Duffy, although a Democrat, has been at odds with Davey for some time, and a reportedly Davey-favored candidate, Dennis Dunlavey of Ashtabula, is in the race for the Democratic attorney-general nomination against Duffy.

Charles Sawyer, Davey's opponent for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, was not available for comment on the board's report, which criticizes the Davey administration, among other things, for increasing highway department payrolls during campaign years, just prior to elections.

Lengthy Report.

The board's report was a voluminous one, covering more than 500 typewritten pages. Its reference to the illegal contract granted the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company was also lengthy.

Head of the Mansfield firm is Carl H. Stander, one-time mayor of Mansfield, and more recently Richland county Democratic executive chairman.

His company was also listed in the recent senate graft-hunting committee's report as a member of the "hot mix" association, a group of Ohio contractors, accused of collusion in bidding on state contracts.

$98 Under Estimate.

The professorial board's findings in the Seneca county paving case showed that the Mansfield company had been awarded the contract to resurface 4.93 miles of state route 4 on a bid of $66,002, which was $98 under the department's estimate. The Mansfield company was low bidder of three firms. The others, Maumee Asphalt Paving company, and the Ohio Road Improvement company, were higher, but neither was over the estimate.

The board reported that the contract was let on the basis of invitational bids, instead of competitive advertised bids, open to all contractors.

Since all the bids submitted were within $100 of the department's estimate,, the board found that "these facts appear particularly significant in view of the fact that the estimated cost was not made public."

'Estimate Inflated.'

The board also reported that the estimates of the cost per ton of "Westphalt," which was used on the job, could be shown to be inflated.

It found that in 1934, the West Process Pavement company, at Bloomville, had quoted a price of $4.25 per ton for Westphalt, f. o. b. trucks at the plant. On July 2, 1937, the board found, the department took the plant cost of Westphalt as $4.25 per ton for base course, $4.40 for bider and $4.75 for surface material.

Cites Price Differentials.

"On May 28, 1937 the report said," the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company submitted a general bid to furnish Westphalt F. O. B. state trucks at either the Mansfield or Bloomville plants for $5.30, and $5.80 per ton for binder and surface course material, respectively. These figures were used in making an estimate of the cost of the material purchased on requisition 2808.

"In 1936 the plant at Bloomville belonged to the West Process Pavement company. This plant was moved out and the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company built a new plant at this location for 1937 operation. If the 1937 general bid prices quoted by the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company are assumed the representative base prices for Westphalt at Bloomville in 1936, then by adding cost of haul and finishing, an estimated cost complete in place can be derived.

Calculates Cost.

"The maximum haul on the project was 10 miles from Bloomville where the producing plant was located. In 1937 the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company made a general bid to haul and spread T-50 at any point within a five to

Davey's Comment Is 'No Comment'

WARREN —(INS)— Governor Davey's comment on the report the professorial board which he appointed to study the state highway department administration was short and to the point.

In Warren today for the Western Reserve sesqui-centennial celebration, Davey said of the committee's report:

"No comment."

Suspects In Bucyrus Safe Cracking Held In Nebraska

'Tip' Furnished by Crawford Sheriff Leads to Arrest of Pair In Omaha; Stolen $1,200 Reported Found.

BUCYRUS—Two suspects who are accused of breaking open the safe at the R. A. Jolly company warehouse Sunday night and escaping with $1,200 in cash, were under arrest today in Omaha, Neb.

The pair, Allen Ballard, 27, and Lyle L. Hebrew, 28, were taken into custody yesterday afternoon by Omaha authorities on information sent ahead by Sheriff Albert French. Charges of breaking and entering against the two men were filed by R. A. Jolly, proprietor of the Bucyrus concern.

Leave to Return Pair.

Sheriff French, accompanied by Marshal R. L. Mick and Patrolman Anthony Spaeth left for Omaha this morning to return the pair.

When apprehended, $1,200 was reported found on Ballard, the amount stolen from the warehouse safe. Cash, checks and bank books were in the safe, which had been moved to a back room. Officers said the safe-cracking was done by someone familiar with the surroundings. Entrance to the warehouse was gained by breaking a small rear window.

Both men had been employed until recently with an electrical construction company here. Ballard was to have started to work at the Jolly warehouse Monday morning.

MLLE. LENGLEN SERIOUSLY ILL

One-Time Tennis Champion Given Transfusion in Paris.

PARIS — (AP) — Suzanne Lenglen, once the world's foremost woman tennis player, today underwent a blood transfusion in an effort to arrest pernicious anemia which her physician said had left her in "a serious condition."

Her doctor expressed, however, that the former champion eventually would be cured.

Holder of the Wimbledon women's title from 1919 to 1923 and again in 1925, she has been operating a Paris tennis school the last five years.

Hughes Expected to Start Eastward Tomorrow or Friday.

LOS ANGELES—(U P)—Howard Hughes, who intends to fly from New York to Paris, probably will not fly east from here until tomorrow or Friday, it was understood today. Hughes had been expected to leave today but it was said that his plane needed some additional adjustments.

ORDERS LIGHT

City to Install Traffic Signal at Mulberry and Second.

A traffic light will be installed at the intersection of South Mulberry street and West Second streets before Sept. 1 as the result of the recommendation of council's street and finance committee, Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert said today.

Styert said the light had been ordered and would be installed at a cost of approximately $300. Residents in the First ward petitioned council for the light two months ago and the request was referred to the street committee.

Installation of the new five-way light at the intersections of Park avenue west, Marion, Bowman street and Sturges avenue has been delayed, Styert explained. The Ohio Public Service company had to order a special steel pole for the project and it will be another two weeks before work will begin, Styert said.

TWO BREAK JAIL

Ohio Prisoners Batter Down Wall To Make Getaway.

BATAVIA —(INS)— Two prisoners escaped from the Clermont county jail during the night by breaking through a wall, Sheriff Auxier reported today.

The prisoners were Charles Lee Harget, alias Edward Lewis, and Dudley Dixon. Harget was to have been taken to the state penitentiary today to serve a one-to-seven year sentence. Dixon, colored, was held on an assault charge.

HOLIDAY, THEN COMES TAXES

Semi-Annual Collection of Real Estate Levy Opens Day After Fourth.

Richland countians will return from their Fourth of July holiday trip to be greeted by tax-paying time again, with the semi-annual real estate levies due next Tuesday, County Treasurer John E. Kolb said today. Books will be open to Aug. 20.

Despite unfavorable business conditions, Kolb expects the collection to measure up to those of recent years, basing his prediction on the $18.000 in advance payments already received and the satisfactory collection during the first half of the year.

County property owners still owe $890,000 on their year's tax bill, after paying $621,370 in real estate and special assessment levies during the first half of the year. Of the amount still due, $142,587 is in delinquent taxes carried over from previous collection periods.

The total charge for the year, including current and delinquent taxes, is $1,513,176, which is slightly more than last year, due to higher rates in some of county districts, Kolb pointed out.

A campaign against delinquent taxpayers has cut the old tax bill in half in the past five years, the treasurer's figures show. From the peak of about $300,000 in 1933, the amount of back taxes due the county has been reduced to less than $150,000

REACHES FINALS

Don Budge to Meet Austin for English Tennis Title.

WIMBLEDON, Eng. — (U.P.) — Donald Budge of Oakland, Cal., gained the final round of the all-England singles tennis championships today and will meet Henry W. (Bunny) Austin of England in the title fight.

Budge, defending champion, moved into the finals with a straight set triumph over Franjo Puncec of Yugoslavia, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4.

Austin, England's top-ranking player who will retire after this tournament, gained the finals for the first time since 1912 by defeating Henner Henkel, German star, 6-2, 6-4, 6-0.

AYRES ATTACKS PUMP PRIMING

France Invokes Death Penalty For Peacetime Spy Convictions

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—The French government today issued a decree establishing the death penalty in peacetime for certain forms of espionage. The law was designed to halt the growing number of spy cases in France in recent years.

Sentences of penal servitude for life, hitherto reserved for wartime espionage offenses, also were made applicable to peacetime convictions in a new drive which authorities said emulated Germany's recent counterespionage activities.

There has been a huge increase in espionage arrests in France in recent years. In the Strasbourg area alone—near the German frontier—there were 250 convictions on espionage charges in 1937.

This year such convictions have averaged nearly four a week.

The new move was embodied in a decree law which also empowered the government to forbid foreigners to reside within "a certain distance" of fortifications and defense works.

Davey-Duffy Fight Looms After '5 Per Cent' Indictments

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Indictment by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy's special grand jury of seven persons accused of soliciting civil service employes for contributions to Gov. Martin L. Davey's campaign fund today presaged a vicious intra-party fight between Duffy and the governor in the remaining weeks before the primary election

As four of the seven men indicted were trusted lieutenants of the governor, it was taken for granted that the organization machine would concentrate on defeating Duffy for renomination as a goal second only to winning a third nomination for the governor.

Ever since May 6 when Duffy reconvened the jury upon complaints that the civil service laws had been violated, resentment against him has been smouldering in the executive offices and among leaders of the state machine.

The stage had been set for a declaration of hostilities some weeks in advance through announcement of Dennis F. Dunlavy, Ashtabula, member of the state utilities commission, that he would oppose Duffy in the primaries. Until two weeks before the filing deadline, the attorney general seemed assured of an unopposed renomination.

Dunlavy's candidacy was widely interpreted — and the interpretation was not denied—as evidence that the Davey organization was retaliating against Duffy.

Most observers thought the delivery of the indictments at this time, when the tempo of the campaign is quickening and with the showdown at the primaries little more than a month in the future, would prove particularly embarrassing to the administration.

Mussolini Asks 'Moderation' In Insurgent Bombings

ITALY DENIES ANY PART IN SHIP ATTACKS

Report Says Franco Has Offered Britain Satisfaction for Numerous Bombings.

(By Associated Press)

ROME—A spokesman for the Fascist regime declared today that Italy had advised Gen. Francisco Franco, the Spanish insurgent leader, to use "moderation" in his efforts to prevent British and other foreign ships from bringing supplies to government Spain.

The spokesman, the noted Editor Virginio Gayda, said that Italy approved of the bombing of vessels carrying contraband but disclaimed any Italian responsibility therefor.

Discloses Conversation.

In an inspired article in the Giornale D' Italia, Gayda disclosed the content of the conversation last night between the Earl of Perth, Britain's ambassador, and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

The editor said Ciano told Lord Perth that Franco already had taken a series of measures to give the British government satisfaction with regard to the long list of bombings of British ships, against which London has protested vigorously.

These measures, Gayda said, were:

First, Franco had given orders that British ships would not be attacked while navigating.

Second, he had ordered that the British flag be respected as far as possible in Spanish government ports.

Third, Franco was willing to name free ports in Western Spain (insurgent-held) where "honest traffic" would have free entry.

Points to Pact.

The Perth-Ciano conference produced speculations that it might bring an end to air raids on British merchantmen in Spanish waters.

Lord Perth was said to have pointed out that a cessation of the attacks would be desirable in the interest of British-Italian relations particularly as the British-Italian friendship treaty is based on the assumption that the Spanish civil war will end soon.

As regards the Spanish situation in general, Fascists saw it as easing in tension because continued bombing of loyalist ports had brought no airplane retaliation by the loyalists.

Reveals Plot to Kidnap Ickes That Al Capone Foiled

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—A plot to kidnap Harold Ickes, secretary of interior, conceived by two Alcatraz prison lifers, was dropped because Al Capone refused to come in on it, Roy Gardner, one-time train robber who recently was released, said today.

Gardner said Albert Bates, who kidnaped Charles F. Urshel, the Oklahoma oil millionaire, and Tom Underwood, a South Dakota desperado, planned the kidnaping. It was their idea that he be held until President Roosevelt ordered their release from Alcatraz.

"They got the idea in 1934," Gardner said. "They heard Ickes was in New Mexico and they asked Capone to provide $10,000 to hire an outside agent who would do the actual kidnaping."

"Al told them off," Gardner said. "He told them President Roosevelt wouldn't free anybody if his whole family was snatched. Capone is a rat but he was smart there. The thing died out because Bates and Underwood didn't have a chance of raising the money when Capone wouldn't come in."

SEES OHIO AS PIVOTAL STATE

Judge Day Tells 200 at G. O. P. Meeting Eyes of Nation on Issues at Stake Here.

The importance of Ohio in the political picture this fall and in the immediate future of American government, was pointed out yesterday by Judge Arthur H. Day of the Ohio Supreme court and candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator.

Judge Day was speaker at a luncheon meeting at the First Methodist Episcopal church attended by 200 Republicans from the county.

Several county candidates were presented by Philip Wolfe, who presided over the meeting, and Mrs. Xilpha Metcalf, of Marietta, spoke for her husband, Senator Verner Metcalf, a candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general.

Judge Day pointed to the fact that political writers of the nation look to Ohio with considerable interest this fall, as one of the pivotal states through which the New Deal may lose its majority hold over the senate.

"I, as an individual candidate, pale into insignificance, when I contemplate the possibilities of the future, of what part Ohio may play in saving America for democracy; party success fades into insignificance when we consider the issues at stake in Ohio," he said.

Referring to the fact that political commentators and observers believe that Ohio will be a controlling factor in the next congress, Day said;

"The future of American democracy depends upon stopping the regimenation and the class hatreds bred in this administration; the suffocation of individual thrift and enterprise, the discouragement of privately owned business and industries; and if Ohio is to be a controlling voice in stopping the destructive forces of the New Deal, in bringing America back to the course of her rightful destiny, then I pray that every Ohioan will rise above party affiliations and vote for democracy."

Other Republican candidates presented were Walter B. Woodward of Bellville, who is seeking nomination for county representative; John C. Friday for county representative; Harry Maxwell for county representative and R. B. Gardner and Earl A. McFarland, candidates state central committeeman from the 17th district. Mrs. Philip Wolfe spoke in behalf of her husband, a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress.

SHARPSHOOTING OFFICER BRINGS DOWN BANDITS AFTER $4 HOLD-UP

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI — A young Ohio highway patrolman's marksmanship with a confiscated rifle stuck through the broken windshield of his speeding car left one man fighting for his life today and another badly wounded as the aftermath of a $4 Chillicothe restaurant hold-up.

Patrolman Carl Whipple of the Wilmington station captured the pair last night near Milford after firing two effective shots into their fleeing car from the rifle which Indiana bank bandits fired at him last winter near New Vienna, O. He acquired the gun after their arrest in Chicago.

The pair taken last night was registered as Thomas Lance, 29, and Carl Frank, 34, both of Cincinnati. Lance was shot in the spine and was expected to die. Frank, who, Lieut. A. O. Smith of the patrol reported, later signed a confession that he and Lance robbed the Chillicothe restaurant of $4.10, was wounded in the shoulder.

Whipple stationed himself at Milford on receipt of a broadcast that the Chillicothe robbers were headed this way. He said he spotted their car approaching and stood in the road.

"They drove right at me," he said, "and then sped off when I ran for cover."

He pursued in his car and with the butt of the rifle knocked a hole in his windshield. He rested the rifle barrel in the hole, and with one hand on the wheel and the other on the trigger, fired two shots. The two cars were going 50 miles an hour at the time, he said.

Both men slumped and their car pulled to the side. Whipple said Frank attempted to run away but was caught a few feet from the car.

FATALLY HURT

Morrow Farmer Victim of Runaway Horses.

MT. GILEAD—Injured when a team of horses hitched to a hay wagon ran away yesterday afternoon, Albert W. Frank, 54, a farmer of near Cardington, died at 1:30 a. m. today in the Marion City hospital.

Frank, who came to Morrow county last March from Illinois, was thrown against a fence post when the horses, driven by Ralph Snyder, a neighbor, raced down a lane, and through two fences after becoming frightened at a tractor on an adjoining farm. Frank suffered internal injuries. His companion was not hurt.

The men had unloaded hay at Snyder's barn and were starting back to the field when the horses bolted and ran away.

Frank is survived by his wife, Emma; a stepdaughter; two brothers and five sisters.

His body will be removed to Glenwood, Ill., where funeral services will be conducted.

RUNS AHEAD OF GOV. LANGER IN SENATE CONTEST

'Progressive Republican' Out in Front in Significant Primary Election.

BULLETIN

FARGO, N. D. — (INS) — Gov. William Langer today was slowly gaining on U. S. Senator Gerald P. Nye in the Republican senatorial nomination. Returns from 1,089 out of 2,260 precincts gave Nye 51,978 and Langer 48,320.

(By Associated Press)

FARGO, N. D.—U. S. Sen. Gerald P. Nye held a commanding lead over Gov. William Langer in their fight for the Republican nomination for senator as returns straggled in from yesterday's primary election.

The Nye-Langer scrap highlighted an election fought mainly on issues of state government, and threw into the shade a Democratic contest in which only a few of the candidates faced opposition.

Nye's running mate on the "Progressive Republican" ticket, opposed to Langer's non-partisan league slate, was Lieut Gov. T. H. H. Thoresen, who was leading Langer's candidate, John Hagan, agricultural commissioner, in the race for nomination as governor.

Nye 13,000 Votes Ahead.

Returns from 595 of the state's 2,260 precincts for the Republican nomination for senator gave Nye 36,667 and Langer 23,645.

In the Republican governor nomination, 487 precincts gave Thoresen 23,067 and Hagan 18,945.

Both of North Dakota's representatives in congress, Usher L. Burdick and William Lemke, were leading a field of six candidates for the Republican nomination for congressman, with Burdick slightly ahead of Lemke.

On the Democratic side, only a few votes had been counted as election officials concentrated on the Republican ballots. Candidates of the "regular" organization were running ahead of opponents backed by a "progressive" group or seeking nomination as independents.

Returns from 78 precincts for the Democratic nomination for Senator gave J. J. Nygaard, "regular," 1,459; Halvor Halvorson, Independent, 413; and E. A. Johanssen, "Progressive," 133. The same number of precincts for Democratic nomination for governor gave the regular candidate, John Moses, 1930 and his Progressive opponent Oliver Rosenberg, 119.

DIES IN SHELBY

Mrs. Dora Hyde, Ex-Mansfield Teacher, Stricken.

Mrs. Dora Grosvenor Hyde, a former teacher in Mansfield public schools, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Clara Rohrer, 46 North Gamble street, Shelby, Tuesday following a lingering illness. Mrs. Hyde had made her home with her sister for the past two and a half years.

Surviving beside her sister are a niece, Mrs. Nellie Carroll of Shelby and a nephew, J. Howard Rohrer of Springfield. Born in Mansfield, Mrs. Hyde was a charter member of the Mansfield Sorosis club and the Shelby Ninety-Seven club and was a life-long member of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Mansfield.

The body was removed to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 3:30 p. m. Thursday in charge of Rev. E. G. Corwin of the First M. E. church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

WIVES CONDUCT KIWANIS SESSION

'Surprise' Program to Be Presented At Luncheon Tomorrow.

A "surprise" program conducted by the wives of members will be presented at the Kiwanis club luncheon meeting tomorrow noon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The meeting will be in charge of wives of the June program committee and wives of officers. Mrs. E. O. Townsend is chairman.

Tomorrow's luncheon will be the club's last at the Mansfield-Leland hotel until September. Sessions will be held at the Westbrook Country club during July and August.

ASHLAND INFANT DIES

ASHLAND — Howard Coleman Farner, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Farner of Ashland, died at Samaritan hospital Tuesday after a brief illness. Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Thursday at the Gilbert chapel and at 2:30 p. m. at the Methodist Episcopal church at Attica with Rev. Charles Mayes of Ashland officiating. Burial will be in Attica cemetery.

GEN. JOHNSON:

Good Middle - of - Road Candidate Only Hope to Avert One - Man Rule

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—The president's "fireside chat" shouldn't be lightly dismissed. It let the cat out of the bag. Shucked to its essentials, it called for two new parties. One is to be the "liberal" party—a one-man party—the Franklin Roosevelt party—which means one-man Roosevelt government. Its tenets are simple—anything Mr. Roosevelt proposes.

The other party—the "conservative"—exists only in Mr. Roosevelt's imagination. It is the Harding-Coolidge party—government as in the twenties—hidebound reaction.

This is an outright corn-doctor, snake-oil fake—but that is the way the president poses it and he is the best poser in political history.

* * *

It overlooks the possibility of a party of the middle-way. There was such a party once. It was the party of the Democratic platform of 1932. That was a political masterpiece—short, honest, realistic, adequate and truly liberal. The president swore feality to it "100 per cent"—and violated it in every principal point.

* * *

The 1936 Democratic platform was the reverse—generalized, and, if not crooked, at least equivocal. It didn't reveal one single one of the 1937 attempts to change our form of government—court reorganization, the original form of the Wages and Hours bill or of government reorganization, the TVA's destruction of the states, or the final form of Mr. Wallace's ever-ga-ga granary. As far as Third New Dealers are concerned, political morality is out the window. The electorate, in their obvious opinion, is a bunch of boobs and they can get away with murder—on the strength of several billion dollars worth of political pap.

* * *

This challenge has been made—to take this kind of corn salve or magic hair-restorer—or Hooverism. This is a challenge to the Republicans. Mr. Roosevelt well knows, and is playing the knowledge overtime, that this country, in 90 per cent of its thinking, is never going back to pre-Roosevelt. Yet the Republicans haven't got a man in their menagerie that doesn't somehow suggest that.

There isn't a Republican who could do the trick. Mr. Roosevelt knows that. Mr. Hamilton will plead in vain for Democrats to become shadows in Republican elections. There is only one answer—for Republicans to support middle-of-the-road Democrats — in congressional districts, in the senate and in the presidency.

* * *

If they had the sense that God gave chickens, they would take some man like Bill Borah, Bob LaFollette or Fiorello La Guardia. They may at times have shot off at tangents, but anybody who knows any of them is certain that they are a whole lot more sensible, responsible and dependable and have a better conception of the American problem than any Third New Dealer. As far as I am concerned, having had a good deal of personal contact with the whole crew, I would rather trust any of them—especially Senator Borah—than the present White House syndicate.

* * *

But it would be hard to convince the country. If I were running Republican strategy, I would nominate a middle - of - the - way Democrat — somebody like Jack Garner, Jimmy Byrnes or Pat Harrison. It might present difficulties, but in any of those cases, they would get a less dangerous president than Henry Wallace, Harry Hopkins or a third term for Franklin Roosevelt—and they would have a cinch to win.

* * *

The old order changeth. The Republican Landon attempt to fool the people must never be repeated. This is a middle-of-the-road country. It is now clear beyond question that there is no "middle-of-the-road" candidate in the Republican crew. But there are nearly 17,000,000 votes. A good, truly liberal candidate could split the difference of 10,000,000 Third New Deal votes and be elected. If that isn't done, these wild men could ruin the country before new salvation is possible.

Opium Becomes Weapon of War as Japan Uses It to Help It Conquer Chinese

—By DeWITT MacKENZIE
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Expert)

NEW YORK—History records many almost unbelievable war atrocities, but it has remained for the present day to produce charges of conquest by selling smoking-opium to the enemy for the dual purpose of smashing his resistance and at the same time making him help pay in cash for the operation.

That in effect is the accusation against Japan now being investigated by the League of Nations narcotics advisory commission. John Chinaman, who for several years has been vigorously fighting his weakness for the pipe of dreams, is held to be the victim.

The allegations come from several sources, including our own Stuart J. Fuller, who is United States delegate to the advisory commission. He bluntly charges Japan with "a narcotics invasion" of China.

With equal vigor, the Japanese representative, Eiji Amau, denies the stories.

* * *

Not only are the Nipponese accused of distributing opium wholesale to the Chinese, but of manufacturing huge quantities of narcotic derivatives and exporting them to the United States and other countries for illicit traffic.

Delegate Fuller has been after Japan for a long time, and he doesn't mince words. He claims the narcotics situation in the parts of China under Japanese control is worse than ever.

During the annual conference of state and territorial health officers at Washington in April, the California representatives of the Committee on Narcotic addiction stated that Japan was helping finance her campaigns in China by stimulating the production of "an enormous surplus of opium and the distribution of its derivatives everywhere."

* * *

Dr. Hoo Chi Tsai, Chinese representative, told the league commission that the Japanese had turned Manchoukuo into "a vast arsenal of narcotics."

Opium poppies are reported to be nodding over vast areas in occupied Chinese territory—beautiful to the eye but worse than death to the addict. Besides all this, Japan is importing and distributing opium on a big scale in China from Iran, according to Delegate Fuller. This is converted into a potent and destructive narcotic and sold illicitly in America and Europe, he says.

CHILD STUDY CLUB HAS INSTALLATION TUESDAY

Mrs. Dale Balph, Mrs. Robert McCaffrey Present Papers; Members Plan to Have Picnic for Children In July.

FOLLOWING the regular business meeting of the Child Study club, Mrs. Allen Ports presented the program. Those appearing were Mrs. Dale Balph, who spoke on "The Hidden Strings of Conduct," and Mrs. Robert McCaffrey, who took as her subject. "Lighthearted Parenthood."

Mrs. Elmer Hedeen, Ausdale avenue, was hostess for the session during which recently elected officers were installed. Those installed were Mrs. Coleman Todd, president; Mrs. Ports, vice president; Mrs. Frederick Forkner, treasurer, and Mrs. Jack Robbins, secretary.

One new member, Mrs. Emmett Casey, was accepted by the organization. Plans were also made for a picnic to be held at Middle Park July 15 at which the children of members will be the guests of honor. Mrs. William Reister is chairman in charge of arrangements and she will be assisted by Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. Jay Simons and Mrs. Keith Miller.

This was the final business meeting of the year and no date has as yet been set for the first fall meeting. Programs will be distributed at the July picnic.

Miss Zaros Bride Of Canton Man In Sunday Ceremony

Among the young women who chose last week-end for their weddings was Miss Caleopy Zaros, daughter of Mrs. John Zaros, 26 Augustine avenue. Miss Zaros became the bride of William Grasouras, Canton, at her home at 5:30 p. m. Sunday. Rev. Janos Gougoutas performed the ceremony.

Miss Zaros, who wore a white lace gown and a jeweled halo, was given in marriage by her godfather, William Georgiou, Chicago. She carried a muff bouquet as did her three attendants. Her attendants were Miss Catherine Zaros, who wore white satin, Miss Fern Zaros, who wore white chiffon, and Miss Anna Brearas, who wore tea-rose chiffon.

Peter Diles, Lorain, was best man and Theodore Massoinas, George and Christ Kalorgeson were ushers. Nuptial music was played by Miss Helen Kaler.

The couple is now on a wedding trip to Cleveland and New York, and they will be at home in Canton early in July. Mrs. Grasouras is a graduate of Mansfield high school and was employed at the Lumbermens Insurance company. Mr. Grasouras is associated with a dry cleaning company in Canton.

Ruth Circle Class Has Three Guests at Session

Members of the Ruth Circle class of the First Christian church were the guests yesterday of Mrs. Charles Jarman at Westbrook Country club. There were 17 members and three guests, Mrs. Charles Haun, Mrs. Joe Mathias, and Miss Mazie Birmelin, present.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. D. B. Wolfgang, and devotions were presented by Mrs. George Brooker. Mrs. Wolfgang and Miss Birmelin gave a vocal duet. The next meeting will be July 26 with Mrs. John Fink, Park avenue west road. Mrs. Carl Laubscher and Mrs. Clinton Berry will be associates.

HELP YOUNG PEOPLE

Loan funds of state federations of women's clubs, collected and made available to worthy young people who would otherwise be unable to have a higher education, now total more than a million and a half dollars. More than 16,000 young people have been aided by these funds. In addition to these funds the General Federation of Women's clubs has a medical loan scholarship and a Pan-American fellowship. The latter was created to bring South American women to this country for study and the promotion of better international understanding.

An attractive resort ensemble is composed of a knitted two-piece frock with crocheted flowers in multicolor on the pockets and lapels, and a loose boxy jacket with similar allover flower detail.

D. of I. Circle Holds Social Session at Rooms

There were nine tables of cards in play last night when the Joan of Arc circle, Daughters of Isabella, met for the monthly social session in the Bird building club rooms. High scores in bridge were held by the Misses Martha Grassbaugh and Ella McNamara.

Five hundred winners were Mrs. Joseph Menrath and Mrs. John Woerth. Miss Mary Elizabeth Jurgens won the door prize. Luncheon was served by Mrs. John Daley and her committee. The next meeting will be a business session July 12. Tonight the circle will sponsor the final benefit party at St. Peter's Catholic church.

Makes Home For Her, But Won't Marry

By VIRGINIA LEE

What queer "critters" we mortals be, are we not? I have just read a pathetic letter from a young woman who is married and yet not married. She is the mother of a small baby and is living with the baby's father, keeping house for him and doing everything a wife would do—and yet there has been no wedding. They got the license one time, but didn't get married.

The young man seems very fond of the baby and of the girl and seems perfectly willing to support and maintain a home for them, but hasn't so far gone through the ceremony which would make him his wife's legal husband.

His mother wants him to marry the girl, and the girl herself is very, very unhappy, because she "isn't doing right." What is to be done? They quarrel simply because the girl is so worried about the matter.

If his mother and his love for you cannot persuade your baby's father to marry you, why not try to get some outsider, an older person, preferably, or at least one who has some influence with the man, to persuade him? Possibly he has some idea that he does not believe in marriage. But surely, when he knows how hard it will make it for his child if he can't legally claim his own father, he will be willing to go through with a simple ceremony which will make all things legal.

Poor babies, I don't know why they should be penalized for their parents' faults. Don't quarrel about the matter. That never helps. Try persuasion when he seems most likely to listen to you, and count on his mother's help, to get him to legalize your position and the baby's. And good luck to you.

B. E. H. met a boy at a party and didn't care much about him, but later found that she liked him a lot. Her friend likes his boy friend. But when the four meet they never speak. The girls have plenty of opportunity to go with other boys, but aren't interested.

It is the girls' place to speak first, girls, so why do you not say "Hello," and then the boys will have a chance to respond if they are interested. If they are not, don't sit home and moan. Accept the invitations that come your way, and have a good time.

Never allow silver spoons stained with egg to stand. Put them into cold water to soak as soon as they are removed from the table.

Clever Neck, Fastening Adds Smartness to Summery Dress.

By MARIAN MARTIN

Wear white this summer, and be fashionable. Pattern 9763 gives the latest slant. Why not make it in white cotton with a brilliant sash or "corselet" belt? See how astoundingly chic and unusual the neckline is, for all its simplicity. And notice that the side closing calls for jaunty buttons on the bodice and the skirt (which opens flat to simplify ironing). Such a cool, action-loving dress, ready for a tennis match, a regatta or a summer luncheon party! Make it of firm broadcloth, a slub cotton or linen. You can sew it up in no time!

Pattern 9763 may be ordered in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3½ yards 36 inch fabric, and ½ yard contrast for sash.

BE SURE TO STATE SIZE

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Martian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, address, and style number.

See our Marian Martin Pattern Book of Summer Styles before deciding on your summer wardrobe! Designed for YOU, for every occasion, this collection of beautifully-fitting patterns contains all those up-to-the-minute styles that you have been looking for. Fashion firsts for daughters and mothers; cool breezy frocks for glorious vacation trips or a summer at home; vivacious play-time styles are included. Write for your copy today. BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

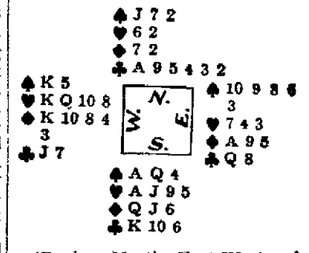
By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

RUBBER BRIDGE HASTE

MANY RUBBER bridge enthusiasts could improve their games tremendously by having an occasional fling at duplicate. Nothing will make them more careful about apparent trifles which can spell the fate of an entire contract. Rubbers have a tendency to make some players develop speed and pride themselves upon it. As a consequence you will frequently see one of them rush into trouble such as blocking an entire suit that could easily be cleared by overtaking an intermediate card



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North and East passed on this deal and South opened with 1-Heart. North responded with 2-Clubs. South 2-No Trumps, North 3-Clubs, and South, figuring he had a splendid fit for clubs and protection in the other suits, called 3-No Trumps.

The diamond 4 was West's initial lead, which East won with the A. He returned the diamond 9, which South covered with the J and West took with the K. When South won the third diamond lead, he figured he was safe, for he could count six possible clubs and one trick each in the other three suits.

The declarer was fortunate in that the outstanding clubs were divided two-two, but was dismayed when he found after cashing the K and A that the 10 in his own hand blocked the suit. The lead of the 10 to the A on the second round would have meant success instead of failure.

Complexion Worries May Be Solved

By JULIET SHELBY

Central Press Writer on Beauty

DON'T LET a bad complexion give you an inferiority complex at the very beginning of your life. It is one of life's pitfalls that so many of you young girls and boys in your early 'teens are apt to get acne. This department has nothing but sympathy for you if you have this misfortune. We know how handicapped you feel, both socially and in school.

There is no reason in these modern times to let it get you down, though. Buck up and go right to work clearing up the condition the very minute it appears. The longer you let it go the worse it will be on your face and your morale.

Mild cases of acne sometimes react to a strict health regimen and simple hygienic skin treatment. If you have it you should not use creams, oils or greasy preparations on your skin. Often it is a good idea to do away with face make-up altogether until your skin returns to normal.

The affected areas should be scrubbed twice a day with soap and warm water and a rough washcloth or complexion brush. Follow this with a thorough rinsing in cold water. This acts as a stimulant and helps close the pores. Sometimes, if your skin is very oily, it needs a stronger astringent such as witch hazel or alcohol. Calamine lotion is a helpful powder lotion which is slightly antiseptic and astringent. It is advisable to apply this before going to bed.

If your skin is less oily and feels a little sensitive after the washing and rinsing, you can apply a lotion of rose water and glycerine which is mildly astringent and is also soothing.

Exercise in the open air is usually of great benefit and try to get plenty of sunlight. In winter, when sun exposure is impossible, use a sun lamp.

Drink Plenty of Water.

Drink eight to twelve glasses of water a day. Eat plenty of fresh fruits and green vegetables. Don't overeat and go lightly on sweets, fried foods, fats, and starches. Make a daily habit of proper elimination, because constipation is one of the greatest handicaps to curing acne. A simple thing like yeast may be very helpful in controlling constipation and at the same time improving the acne condition.

An oily scalp, stringy hair and dandruff are usually as part of this type of adolescent skin. Therefore your skin treatment cannot be truly effective unless you include hygienic scalp measures in your daily routine. Shampoo your hair and scalp twice a week and apply an appropriate scalp lotion every day.

If the condition is severe and doesn't react to this sort of treatment you had best see a physician. If medication or X-ray is necessary it must be done under a competent doctor. Get your nearest hospital or medical association to suggest the name of a reliable man.

Here's wishing you all the success in the world on clearing up your skin.

To remove lime which accumulates on the inside of a tea kettle, boil a strong solution of vinegar inside of the kettle, then rinse thoroughly before putting water in.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I do not think there was a breath to spare among the three of us—Junior, Roderick and myself—as Mother Graham, a formidable frowning figure, following her knock on my study door, came into the room.

It did not seem possible that she could have overheard anything we had said, because the boys had taken their cue from my caution and my example and had pitched their voices so low that they were divided between a murmur and a whisper. Yet, I instinctively felt that her displeasure had its roots in the colloquy with the children I had just concluded.

"I do not wish to intrude upon your secrets," she began in her loftiest tones, "but I must remind you that the ten minutes Katie set before dinner are almost up. If you do not bring this—this conference to a close, dinner will be delayed, and Richard is extremely hungry."

Tells of "Secrets."

I knew that it was not Dicky's hunger which was so acute, but her own. I did not let any suspicion of my knowledge escape me, however, and simply swept the boys out of the room with a low peremptory, "Go into the downstairs lavatory and wash up for dinner. And hurry!" Then, as they scampered out, I faced my irate mother-in-law, glad beyond reason that the boys could not hear my next speech.

"You used the right word, Mother, when you came in," I told her, smiling.

"What word?" she demanded tartly.

"You spoke about 'secrets'," I said smoothly. "Didn't you see them change color?"

"I wasn't looking at them, but at you," she retorted. "I didn't see any change in your face."

I told myself that I was "right glad" she couldn't. But aloud I laid another plank of my foundation.

"That's because the 'secrets' weren't naturally of as much importance to me as they were to the boys. I'm sure you'll understand when I tell you that they concern Christmas. They have a lively remembrance of their tardiness last year, and its results, although they didn't say so. But I surmised their feeling from their eagerness to get started upon their Christmas shopping and planning. I promised to give them a list of two or three articles each person in the house would like—of course, within the scope of their allowances."

I had been talking against time, and was overjoyed when she snapped at the bait.

"You don't mean," she said in horrified tones, "that you're going to let them give each person two or three gifts? The poor little tykes! They'll bankrupt themselves."

Doesn't Like Scheme.

"Indeed no," I told her. "They're going to choose one gift for each person from the list I give them. And I know you're at the top of both their lists. So I hope you'll tell me as soon as possible two or three things that you'd like."

"Indeed! I'll do nothing of the kind," she said childishly. "I don't like that scheme at all. I want to be surprised."

I commented to myself that she probably would get her wish if I turned the boys loose to select her present without any guide. But I knew better than to voice my thought. I had succeeded in making her believe that my colloquy with the boys had to do with Christmas presents alone, and I was content to rest on my laurels.

With a sudden thought of Bill upstairs getting things ready for a journey, of which I wished neither Hank nor Dicky to know before the psychological moment, I spoke hurriedly, with simulated chagrin.

"I would better follow 'mine own teachings'," I said, looking at my hands. "If you'll excuse me, Mother, I'll just run up to my own bathroom and wash up a bit. I won't be a minute, but don't wait for me. You and Dicky go in as soon as Katie announces dinner."

"Of course I shall do no such thing," she said with a martyr's air. "We will wait for you."

Hollywood Speaks---

By ROBBIN COON

HOLLYWOOD—Frank Leavitt, 320 pounds of him, is in the movies again, and the sound stages are groaning—and should be grunting—in welcome.

Frank is a big boy from Georgia by way of West 43rd street, New York City, where he was born nearly 47 years ago—June 30, 1891. Even at that early date in his career he loomed big—16 and one-half pounds. He kept on looming. By the time he was 14 he was big enough to fool the U. S army into letting him join. And that, in a way, was what led him surely into the art of acting—and eventually, therefore, into Hollywood. For he took up wrestling even then, and now—

* * *

In Hollywood he has a role to his liking at last. He has played it in real life many times, but there were usually hecklers to dispute the niceties of his performance, even his claims to it. In "The Gladiator," Frank Leavitt is playing the role of UNDISPUTED world's heavyweight wrestling champion, and the novelty is tremendous. Leavitt will grapple for a full reel—his biggest footage to date—with Joe E. Brown. And the outcome of the bout—up to the latest "final" script—was not yet "in the bag." Which also, if the wrestling-batters can be heeded has its elements of novelty.

Leavitt stands unique among film actors, new and old. There are actors as bulky, there are even actors who deliberately wear beards off screen and on. But Leavitt is the only movie actor who expects to be called by his wife's name rather than his own. You'd never think of calling Franchot Tone "Mr. Crawford," or Dick Powell "Mr. Blondell," but Leavitt built his fame as "Mr. Dean." His wife down Georgia way still is known as Doris Dean, and Frank (when he isn't Mr. Dean) as Man Mountain Dean.

This, he explains, was due to his wrestling tour of Germany. The name Leavitt—although his family had been Yanks for generations—was suspect in Hitler's Germany. He had to use Dean to get his mat license. As his wife was his manager, anyway, that seemed the right name to use. He had met her in Miami, Fla., while traffic-copping. He had wrestled as well as been wounded during the war, and punctured a kidney in an early match thereafter. The job in traffic served during recuperation.

Mrs. Dean piloted Frank through Germany and England, and it was in London that his talents as an actor—and his beard—were discovered simultaneously. Doubling for Charles Laughton in a brief wrestling sequence for "Henry the Eighth," Frank couldn't keep his false beard on, so grew his own—and kept it. Whether that started it or not, his ring performances have caused certain sports observers to laud him as the greatest of all actors. But until now no studio has given more than passing recognition to his talents.

Leavitt may be prevented from capitalizing on his newly won film success. Stern duty calls. He's running for the Georgia legislature, and must hie himself back home to make speeches and kiss babies—those not too frightened. He denies that his spectacles are being used to read up on political matters. "What politician," he demands, "ever had to read anything?"

Meanwhile, among his cherished possessions is a tent-like full dress suit. A movie actor never knows when he'll need one, as he told David Loew, his producer, on arrival.

* * *

Even his best friends don't recognize Jack Oakie since he dropped those 40-odd pounds. . . . He's streamlined himself now to a shadowy 160.

Things to drive the glamor girls and boys batty, Charlie McCarthy, a wooden dummy; Dopey, an animated drawing; Shirley Temple, just a cute kid; and Deanna Durbin. . . . Universal hopes that after "The Rage of Paris" Danielle Darrieux will be able to share some of the burden that has rested on Deanna's young shoulders — so that the "U" will have two meal-tickets. . . .

Vegetables, if allowed to stand in water after they are boiled become soggy. Drain off water after they are boiled and use for soup stock.

THEATER

BILL ROBINSON, mayor of Harlem and one of the superlative tapper, is working with Eleanor Powell on dance routines for her next picture, "Honolulu," in which Allan Jones will co-star with her. . . . Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney will be starred in "Boys Town," which deals with the work of Monsignor Edward Flanagan, organizer of the self-governing city of homeless boys near Omaha, Neb. The basic idea is similar to the Ohio Boys States conducted by the American Legion, except that the latter is a make-believe government, while the Omaha city is a real and permanent one. . . . M-G-M will produce Dickens' "Christmas Carol" and have it ready by the holidays. . . . The Robert Benchley short on "How To Raise A Baby" is said to be a honey, with several babies stealing the show. . . .

* * *

The New Gold Diggers.

A new edition of the Gold Diggers is Warner Brothers' current contribution to music-and-dance shows. It will be recalled that "Gold Diggers of Broadway," which came out in 1929, was the first big musical film after the advent of talkies. This year it's the "Gold Diggers in Paris," and the tunes that may—or may not—develop into hit songs are "I Wanna Go Back to Ball," "Day Dreaming," and "Strangers in Paree." It is booked for the last three days of the week at the Ohio, starting tomorrow. Rudy Vallee and Rosemary Lane head the cast, but there are several popular character players in the film, including Hugh Herbert, Allen Jenkins, Melville Copper, and Gloria Dickson.

* * *

The Wrong Man.

The story of a girl's devotion to a worthless man and what it cost her in suffering is told in "Prison Farm," the current film at the Madison. Centering her affections on an attractive and interesting man, she gives up her work to follow him, and the path leads her to a penal institution, one of the kind that still exists but is rapidly disappearing from American penal systems. Her one avenue of comeback lies with a young prison doctor, and how she takes that avenue at the risk of her life is dramatically told in the picture. Lloyd Nolan is the man and Shirley Ross the girl, while John Howard plays the doctor.

* * *

Miss Temple Travels.

Without fanfare and with little or no publicity, Shirley Temple has been making a tour of the country with her parents. Whenever possible she has met groups of children, with no advance publicity, and has traveled like any normal little girl. Her only big avalanche of newspaper stories followed her visit with the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. The Temples made a leisurely trip, so that Shirley could stop and see the country wherever it interested her. They turned down almost a hundred thousand dollars in contracts on the trip, so that the youngster could enjoy life without being hounded, which is in sharp contrast to the trips of other movie children lately. Shirley's first picture, "Little Miss Marker," a story of race track people, is the attraction at the Majestic, along with "Texas Rangers."

* * *

Against the Sierras.

The beauty of the Sierra Nevadas is captured in "Gold Is Where You Find It," which opens a two-day engagement at the Ritz today. The majestic mountains, in natural colors are background for the bitter fight that was waged between the wheat farmers who settled California after the first mad gold rush, and the later hydraulic miners who ushered in a new gold rush. The water mining destroyed the crops and threatened the existence of the farmers. Oliva De Havilland as the daughter of one of the farmers and George Brent, a mining engineer, are teamed for the romantic interest. The picture is filled with action and drama.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, June 30.

A day of rather intriguing as well as adventurous experiences in both the private and business lives is forecast from the predominant planetary configurations. Writings, publishing and promotional enterprises may prove lucrative. In the intimate relations there is need of discretion, as peculiar or subtle slants might prove regrettable.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of sudden and surprising adventures involving change through writings, publicity, renewed contracts and strange associations.

A child born on this day may have a very lively, progressive and adventurous nature, with tendencies to the subtle and shrewd in attaining its objectives. It may be easy-going, generous and kindly, and may find it difficult to conserve the fruit of its enterprise.

KING CARL'S BROTHER PITCHING FOR HOUSE OF DAVID TEAM.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—If there is any doubt in your mind as to which punch really did for Schmeling, take another look at the fight pictures. . . . They'll convince you Max was just about out when Louis belted him into the ropes—several seconds before the much-discussed "kidney punch" was landed. . . . Carl Hubbell's kid brother, (he's a right-hander) has sprouted a soup strainer and is doing all right with the House of Davids.

Newman Club Drubs Madison

The Newman Men's softball aggregation smothered the Madison High Boosters' outfit, 36 to 14, in a free-scoring affair at Liberty park yesterday. Newman pounded out 35 hits off the offerings of Al Fendrick to push across at least one run in all but the second inning. The winners opened the tilt with a 12-run splurge in the initial frame and then finished with 10 runs in the ninth.

Swank was on the mound for the Newman club and gave up 14 hits, but the big advantage piled up by his team in the early frames was too much for the Boosters to overcome. Turner, Fetter, Kyle, Metz hit home runs for the winners. Kopcial added a circuit blow to the losers' cause.

Hurls No-Hit, No-Run Game As Athletics Win, 14-0

JOE FREIHEIT became the first baseball hurler in the city to mark up a no-hit, no-run game this season by pitching the Tigers to 14 to 0 victory over the Browns at the Fairground yesterday in a city recreation Intermediate league tilt. The youthful righthander was in splendid form as he set the Browns down with out issuing a walk. He struck out 12 of the 15 batters who faced him in the five-inning affair. The Tigers collected 18 hits off Meeker. Eisele, LeMunyon and Konves secured three hits apiece for the winners. Donnan added two triples to the attack.

The Athletics registered their third straight win by thumping the White Sox, 8 to 1, in the other game. Chuck Burton let the Sox down with one hit. The winners tallied three in the first to take a lead they never relinquished. Sheriff and Martin led the Athletics with two hits each.

Dodgers, Reds Add Victories.

The Reds drove across a run in the first of the sixth to edge the Giants, 10 to 9, in a Junior league affair yesterday at the Fairground. It was the winners third straight triumph. Singles by Thomas and Altmonte accounted for the winning run. In the second tilt the Dodgers defeated the Cubs, 10 to 9. The Cubs tallied three markers in the fifth, but the Dodgers came back to score the winning run in the last half of the inning. Reese, Ebbert and Freer hit triples for the losers.

Three Mansfielders On Ashland Amateur Card

MANSFIELD will be well represented on the Salvation Army Building fund A. A. N. boxing show to be staged at the Coliseum at the Ashland county fairground Friday night.

Three Friendly House youngsters will carry the burden of upholding Mansfield's prestige against some of the outstanding simon pure talent in this district. Mike Wentz of the settlement announced today.

The trio are Paul Carbetta Galion N. C. O. and Marion Golden Glove bantamweight champion, Tommy Clemens, who annexed the 112-lb. division crown in the Junior Association of Commerce tournament recently and Beaufort Glover, lightweight.

A five-round match between Jamie McKinley of Ashland J. A. C. featherweight champion, and Ray Gregg flashy Cleveland amateur, who defeated McKinley in an opening round match in the Plain Dealer Golden Glove tournament in Cleveland this spring will headline the show.

Eight matches have been lined up for the interesting card.

Vander Meer Ends Jinx for Red Legs

Defeats Pirates to Give Cincinnati First Win at Pittsburgh In Two Years.

By PAT ROBINSON
(INS Sports Writer)

NEW YORK—Baseball history is replete with cases of individuals and teams with strange holds over other players and teams.

There was, for instance, Carl Mays, the old submariner of the Red Sox, Yanks and Giants, who held unbreakable dominion over the Athletics for many years and who, when he joined the National League, continued to hold sway over the Phillies.

Joe Tinker of the old Cubs had no trouble hitting the immortal Christy Mathewson even on Matty's best days. And Little Doc Goutreaux, who couldn't hit his weight against anybody else, always hit the great Dazzy Vance as if he owned him, as the ball players say.

Then there was Hub Pruett, the Brown's lefthander, who fanned Babe Ruth 3 times in a row. Pruett used to tell Babe when he was going to throw a screw ball and then fan him. Pruett's dominance held good until one day Babe hit one nine miles and thereafter Hub was just another lefthander to the busting bambino.

First Win In 22 Games.

Another long-standing jinx was ended yesterday when the Reds, who had lost 21 straight games in Pittsburgh (believe it or not, Mr. Ripley), finally turned on their tormentors and won, 5 to 2

Cincinnati hadn't won a game in the Pirate stronghold since Aug. 11, 1936, and it took some masterly pitching by Johnny (double no-hit) Vander Meer to bring them down in front. The young lefthander let the Pirates down with six hits, only two of which were made after the second inning.

Ninth Straight.

That was Johnny's ninth straight victory and his tenth of the season. He seems a good bet to win 25 this season.

Homers by Hal Trosky and Ken Keltner and some neat relief pitching by Johnny Humphries, enabled Johnny Allen to hang up his tenth straight victory for the Indians at the expense of the Tigers, 5-4.

The stumbling Cubs could get only seven hits off Lon Warneke and bowed to the Cardinals, 9 to 3. The Cards fell on Tex Carleton like a ton of bricks and rolled up seven runs in one luscious inning.

Radcliff's homer with two aboard in the ninth was the payoff punch as the White Sox took a slugfest from the Browns, 10-9. All other games were washed out.

Allen Registers 10th Straight Against Tigers

Scores 5 to 4 Win, but Had to Have Help From Humphries In Eighth.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—A year ago Johnny Allen, fiery right-handed star of the Cleveland Indians, came down to the closing day of the American league season with a record of 15 victories without a defeat.

In his final effort he was attempting to tie the modern consecutive game winning streak and also to gain the distinction of being the second hurler in American league history to finish a campaign without a loss.

Allen's final start was against the Detroit Tigers. The lantern-jawed mound ace gave the Tigers only five hits, but lost a heart-breaking 1 to 0 game when his teammates were able to secure but a single hit off the offerings of young Jake Wade.

John Allen

Allen doesn't forget easily and today he's making the Detroit club pay dearly for the loss it handed him. The Indians' star scored his third triumph of the season over the Tigers here yesterday when he turned them back 5 to 4.

The victory was Allen's 10th straight as against a single defeat, and enabled Cleveland to increase its league lead to 4½ games over the idle New York Yankees.

Gives Up 5 Hits.

Allen needed help from Rookie Johnny Humphries late in the game, but nevertheless turned in an impressive performance. He gave the Tigers only five hits in the 7⅓ innings he worked.

Manager Oscar Vitt took Allen out of the game with one out in the eighth when he walked Charley Gehringer and Rudy York to put the tying and winning runs on base.

Humphries came in and forced Fox to ground out. Then Greenberg was walked intentionally to fill the bases. With the pressure on him, Humphries fanned Chet Laabs to end the Tiger threat.

Humphries gave up two singles in the ninth, but again bore down to pull out of the hole.

Shell Bridges In 2nd.

Tommy Bridges started in the box for Detroit, but was shelled from the hill in the second inning when Cleveland pushed across all of its five runs.

A home run by Hal Trosky with Jeff Heath and Earl Averill on base accounted for three runs. Then Ken Keltner added another with his 13th circuit drive of the year and the final counter came on a single, a sacrifice, a wild throw and an outfield fly.

Harry Eisenstat, rookie southpaw, relieved Bridges with none out in the second and permitted only four hits the rest of the way.

Mel Harder and Wade, the nemesis of Allen a year ago, were to be the opposing hurlers in the second game of the series here today.

Dizzy May Be Back On Mound Soon

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—A Chicago Cubs physician said today that the torn muscles in Dizzy Dean's shoulder are almost healed and that the hurler may begin pitching slowly "in a few more days."

The physician reported his findings to Manager Charlie Grimm who said he would make no plans until the injury is healed completely.

Dean injured his back shoulder muscles about three weeks ago while warming up in the bull pen for a relief role during a double-header engagement with the New York Giants.

Legionnaires Can Gain On Leaders Sunday

Dewey Durant's American Legion club can jump up a notch in the standings in the Central Ohio semi-pro baseball league Sunday when it engages the dangerous Coshocton aggregation in the twice postponed Boosters' day game at the Fairground. The tilt will be preceded by a game between the Mansfield American Legion Juniors and the Legion Juniors of Elyria.

If the Mansfielders, who at present are tied with Coshocton for fourth place, can topple the visitors, it will be possible for them to grab a share of third place.

The chances of the Legionnaires reaching their goal depends on the outcome of the new Philadelphia-Logan affair at New Philadelphia Sunday. If Logan, which last week bowed to Jackson, 5 to 0, in the only game played, can turn back the third place Phillies, the Mansfield club can take sole possession of that position.

The Legion Juniors, who will open activities at 1:30 p. m., will lineup with Beck, left field, Red LeMunyon, centerfield, Rudolph, rightfield, Henry Convas, shortstop, Robert Donnan, third base, Peter Moritz, second base, Al Finney, first base, Joe Freiteit, catch and Jake Lyons, pitch. Also available are Christ Jackson, pitch, and "Rabbit" Isaly, catch.

The youngsters will also meet the Elyria club in a single game Saturday afternoon at the Fairground.

OHIOAN SURPRISES

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Harry Zink, youngster from Steubenville, furnished a major surprise yesterday in the West Penn tennis championships by defeating Bob Lampus of North Boroughs, 6-4, 7-5. The veteran was tenth-seeded.

Leader Faces Test In B Loop

The Bissman company foursome will be fighting Thursday to retain its four-point lead in The News-Journal Class B golf league race when it tackles the News-Journal entry in the feature match at Possum Run.

While the leaders are attempting to dispose of the Newsmen, the second place Mansfield Metal Vaults face Al's Kicks in an effort to cut the pace setter's lead.

In the other affairs the Ohio Public Service club clashes with Central Fruit and Auxter Motors play the last-place Elks Lodge team.

STOCK MARKET RECAPTURES BOOM SPIRIT

Buying Rushes Sweep List From Opening; Westinghouse, du Pont Up 4.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market recaptured its boom spirit today after the interruption of the last two days.

New buying rushes swept the list from the opening, the one in the second hour sending the high speed ticker 3 minutes behind. The list forced ahead under this impetus, absorbing new profit-taking easily, and leaders ran up 1 to 4 points.

Blue chips scored the largest gains. Dupont led with a 4-point jump. Other large gainers included Westinghouse, up 4; Johns Manville 3, Eastman Kodak 3, and Philip Morris over 2.

Steels Provide Leadership.

Steels provided strong leadership as a group with Bethlehem and U. S. Steel up more than 2 points each.

Motor shares were likewise buoyant on reports of high optimism among auto makers and a big reduction in inventories. Chrysler spurted 3 points and General Motors a point.

Rails were heavily bought on setting of the date for th pay conferences. Gains ran to 2 points in Atchison and Union Pacific.

Astronomers suggest the possible existence in the Milky Way of 100,000 planets inhabited like the earth. What?—100,000 Japans?—100,000 Hitlers?—100,000 Mussolinis? No, no — 100,000 times no!

AIDS HUSBAND IN CAMPAIGN

Mother, Lawyer, Mrs. Metcalf Still Finds Time to Help in Drive for Votes.

ciation of University Women; she is active in church work and in the Ladies' Aid; she is campaigning for her husband and finds time in the evenings to make her own strawberry jam.

She orders the groceries, sees that her husband's and children's clothes are mended and in their proper places, and that they have their meals on time. All this with only one housemaid.

And in her spare time she works in her flower garden. In fact, she kills two birds with one gesture in that garden—she plans her court cases while pulling the weeds out of the petunias.

Sounds like a large, capable, deep-voiced woman with a lorgnette, doesn't she? But she wears a size 14 dress, and affects styles that her high school daughter can wear on occasions. Yesterday she wore a smart, white tailored suit and a perky white hat perched precariously over dark rolls of hair.

Right now her interests are torn between her daughter's current "crush" and her husband's campaign. She is terribly in earnest about his election.

"Republicans who sincerely want good, clean government, can't do other than vote for Verner Metcalf," she said yesterday. "The issue in this year's election is graft, and Verner gave them that issue. He insisted on an investigation into the various state departments — an investigation that revealed a shocking state of affairs. From Dec. 20 to Feb 28 he worked day and night, and without even expense money from the state.

"The personal integrity of a man may be fairly judged by what his fellow citizens think of him, and Verner has been elected prosecuting attorney of his county two terms, served nine years on the school board, and four years in the state senate—the only Republican elected in a Democratic landslide. Even if I weren't his wife, I would support him a hundred per cent, in the interests of my home, my children and my citizenship."

Which would indicate that the attorneys, Metcalf and Metcalf, and the marital team, Mr and Mrs, will stick together through the August primaries

PECULIARITIES OFTEN CAUSE OF FAILURES, COLLEGE PREXY SAYS

Behavior habits due to peculariues in thinking are frequent causes of failure and maladjustment, according to Dr Charles L Anspach, president of Ashland college, who spoke at Tuesday's meeting of the Mansfield Rotary club, held at Westbrook Country club

With "A Sound Mind" as his subject, Dr Anspach explained various oddities of the human mind which sometimes lead to insanity, but which, if recognized and treated can frequently be restored to normal

He emphasized the importance of understanding mental processes and having medical attention in cases where departure from normal thinking is realized by an individual or members of the family.

"The majority of experiences are universal," said Dr. Anspach, "and should be recognized as such, rather than that a person should think he is being subjected to something out of the ordinary, or suffering in a way that other people have not experienced."

Referring to some of the causes of failure to adjust to surroundings, Dr Anspach mentioned hostility, inability to get along with other people, overconfidence in self; feeling of inferiority, and a desire to avoid work.

Need for more attention to the need for early treatment of mental ailments was presented as a means of reducing the further spread of insanity, or the requirement for institutional care

Dr. R C. Wise was chairman of the meeting, at which W L Miller, retiring president, presided

R. C Hoiles, of Santa Ana, Calif, former Mansfield publisher, was a guest at the meeting, being in Mansfield and vicinity for a couple of weeks visit.

HOLMES COUNTY RESIDENTS GET PEN SENTENCES

Uncle and Nephew to Serve Terms of One to 15 Years in Chicken Thefts.

MILLERSBURG—Clarence Domer, 61, and his nephew, Dan Domer, 31, were each given sentences at Ohio State penitentiary by Judge R. B. Putnam in common pleas court here.

Clarence was sentenced to serve one to 15 years on two counts, the sentences to run consecutively and Dan was given one to 15 years on the first count of one indictment and placed on probation for five years on the second count.

The latter pleaded guilty after the Holmes grand jury returned two indictments of two counts each against him. Clarence was found guilty after a court trial held here in common pleas court Monday.

The charges resulted from thefts of chickens and other farm produce from farmers of Holmes county. Numerous chicken thefts throughout the county were cleared up with the arrest and confession of the pair. Clarence Domer who lives four miles west of Sugarcreek is said to have maintained a chicken slaughter house where the stolen fowls were dressed and sold to markets in nearby towns.

FILES MAINTENANCE SUIT

MILLERSBURG—Mrs. Margaret Taylor Elliott has filed a separate maintenance suit against her husband, Charles Elliott, business man here. It is stated in the petition prepared by the law firm of Cary, Estill and Kuhn of Millersburg, that the couple was married Jan. 10, 1938, and on Feb. 1, 1938, the defendant evidenced a total lack of interest in her and that toward the end of March he told her that he had no love for her; that he missed his freedom and requested her to leave.

ATTACKS WILL

Nephew Risks Bequest to Fight Eccentric's Testament.

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—A suit to set aside the $1,100,000 will of William P. Devou, late wealthy eccentric, was on file today in Hamilton county common pleas court.

Paul Devou, San Francisco, a nephew, brought the action. He risks losing $100 monthly income left him in the will. A codicil provided that the nephew be deprived of any benefits if he contested the will.

Most of the millionaire's fortune was left for construction of a community house at Devou Park, Covington, Ky., at a cost of $50,000 to $75,000 and to permanent upkeep of the park.

The nephew, under terms of the original will, was to have received $50,000. If the suit is successful relatives will share in a division of real estate valued between $500,000 and $800,000.

TWINS BURIED

BUCYRUS — Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Henderson and Lutz funeral home for the twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Grau, who died soon after birth Monday. Larry died at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning and Jerry died at 5:45 Monday evening. Burial was made in Oakwood cemetery.

The infants were the only children. Survivors besides the parents are the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Holmes of Whetstone township, and the paternal grandmother, Mrs. Dora Grau, of Tod township.

HE'S OUT THE TIP, TOO

ST. CHARLES, Mo.—(AP)—Justice of the Peace George P. Hart is certain one couple is beginning married life under false pretenses. Hart cashed a $60 check for the couple after the marriage ceremony, then declined a $1 tip. The check bounced. "I wish now I'd taken the tip," he said.

WINS BY MUSTACHE

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—(AP)—The city council renewed Joseph Bornstein's liquor license, but only after a strange explanation for his conviction on a charge of selling liquor to two minors. Bornstein misjudged the youths' ages because they wore false moustaches—made of rabbit fur.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

MOTHER SKUNK

I WALKED along the gravel road that runs through our farm to see if the soybeans we planted a few days ago had sprouted. Since they were sown, last week, it has not rained, but the soil was moist enough for them to germinate. I found them coming up, dark green seed leaves breaking through the soil in every direction.

As I returned, a short distance ahead, I saw a black and white creature cross the road, with five babies following. They walked slowly and did not change their pace, though the mother skunk must have known that I was near. The sly creature reached the ditch by the time I came up to the path she had made in the dust.

There, in the soft, moist earth of the trench, she dug some worms and gave them to her youngsters, who ate greedily. Then she reached a paw beneath some sickly looking grass stalks and pulled out a large, white, writhing grubworm. Two little mouths pounced quickly upon it.

I walked closer, and then it was I saw the peculiar behavior of the mother skunk. She told her youngsters to hide in the tall grass while she walked on toward me. Her furry tail waved lustfully up and down. She changed her footing and stood turned between me and her offspring.

I knew well I was nearing the point of danger. The wary skunk tried to tell me with all the eagerness she felt at her command—and she had much—that I should leave. But her highbred mind was not a fool. It knew that she would surely spray me if I came closer, that she might even do so if I remained where I was; that she didn't want to waste ammunition on such a foe as I unless it had to be.

I knew that when the very highest kind of tail stiffened and the vixen could not escape, I did not want to argue. The Lord only knows how close that would bring me to her before I turned and made long tracks in the opposite direction.

RAINS DELUGE JAPANESE ISLES

21 Dead, 50,000 Homes Flooded By Severe Storms.

TOKYO—(AP)—Twenty-one persons were known dead and 15 were missing today as the worst rains in 40 years deluged all Japan's main islands.

At Yokohama a cliff caved in, crushing five homes and killing 12 persons, most of whom were believed to be Koreans. Other casualties included seven killed at Mito and Yokosuka when houses collapsed.

Almost 50,000 houses were flooded in Tokyo. Railroads and power lines were disrupted.

proximately $31,000 more to Richland county than had been originally figured.

City and county officials, however, were still of the opinion that the program would be of no benefit to the sub-division which were without funds to match the state grants. Borrowing of 90 per cent of revenues anticipated during 1939-41 from utility excise, near-beer, admissions, malt and wort taxes would have been permitted.

The compromise plan calling for 70 per cent borrowing would have made approximately $81,000 available to Richland county to meet relief bills for the balance of the year. The balance of the anticipated revenues would be available in future years.

Under the revision of the 90 per cent borrowing plan the county would receive $104,000, or approximately $50,000 less than is anticipated for relief needs for the balance of 1938.

City officials pointed out that the plan had its benefits if the city had the available monies to match the anticipated funds.

CAVALCADE SET

Rehearsal of All Units to Be Held Tomorrow Night.

A general rehearsal of all of the units and episodes that will be a part of the historical cavalcade presented at the fairground, Fourth of July, will be held at 7 p. m. Thursday at the fairgrounds.

The revolving stage will not be used for the rehearsal, according to J. Gilbert Baird, director, but all of the acts will be rehearsed in the infield opposite the grandstand.

Horses for the pioneer episodes will be furnished by the Mansfield Riding academy.

The Mansfield City Parks association, which is sponsoring the all-day celebration and fireworks display, said today that in case of rain next Monday, the whole program and fireworks would be held over until the following Saturday.

DECLARED DEAD

BUCYRUS — Settlement of the estate of Mary Heller, who left her home Feb. 18, 1935 and has never been seen or heard of since, enriches the county's general fund $1,551.31 according to an entry in probate court today. Mary Heller was declared dead by Judge Constance R. Keller on application by Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon. S. E. Kless is trustee of the estate.

FUNERAL SET

Rites for A. J. Steinhelfer to Be Held in Chicago.

GALION—Funeral services will be held Thursday morning in St. Peter's Catholic church, Chicago, for Andrew J. Steinhelfer, 59, a native of Galion and Chicago railroad man. He died Monday morning at Chicago Polyclinic hospital, according to word received here by his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Steinhelfer, who will attend the services in Chicago.

The deceased had been a switchman until three years ago when he was forced to retire because of ill health. He was born in Galion Dec. 2, 1878, and was a son of George W. and Mary Ann (Halman) Steinhelfer. He left Galion 35 years ago for Chicago. His marriage took place 28 years ago in Chicago and he is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Walter Linn, and two grandchildren. Two brothers, Walter C., of Galion, and William H., of Bellefontaine, and a sister, Mrs. Sadie Karl, of Chicago, also survive. A twin brother, George W., died five years ago.

VANDERBILT DIES

Member of Railroad-Owning Family Was 83.

HYDE PARK, N. Y. — (AP) — Frederick William Vanderbilt, 83, capitalist, railroad director and yachting enthusiast, died at his country home here after a week's illness.

Vanderbilt followed in the footsteps of his father and two older brothers in the railroad business, but did not attain the high positions they reached, nor did he attract as much public attention.

He was a director of numerous railroads and other corporations.

Unlike his father, the late William Henry Vanderbilt, and his brothers, Cornelius and William K., he was extremely unassuming. He is survived by his widow, the former Mrs. Alfred Torrence.

DEATH CLAMS GEORGE KREITER AT GALION HOME

Well Known Resident Dead at 71; Funeral Services to Be Held Friday.

GALION—George Kreiter, 71, of 554 South Union street, well known Galion resident, died Tuesday evening at 6:45 o'clock of complications following an illness of one year. He had been bedfast four weeks.

He was born Mar. 11, 1867, in Germany, and came to this country when he was one year old.

He was married to Grace L. Shea on May 29, 1896, and she died in May, 1937.

Surviving are one son, Lorenzo, at home; a brother, Henry of Galion; and two sisters, Mrs. Anna Eichler and Mrs. Anthony Bechtol, both of Galion. A daughter, Ruth, died 17 years ago.

He had been a machinist at the E. M. Freese and company for a number of years, and was a member of Peace Lutheran church, and the Modern Woodman of America lodge.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the Snyder funeral home. Rev. R. E. Porter of Wooster, former pastor of the Galion Presbyterian church, will officiate. Burial will be made in Fairview cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

EX-JUDGE SPEAKS

GALION—The speaker for the monthly business and social meeting of the Men's Brotherhood class at the First Reformed church Tuesday night was W. J. Schwenk of Bucyrus, former probate judge and now a candidate for judge of the court of appeals. He told of the duties of the probate court.

The program was in charge of Herman Eichhorn, and other features included a violin number by Robert Rehl, and a piano number by Genevieve Shumaker. Business was in charge of Roy Eichhorn when plans were made for a picnic to be held next month.

Fred Hessenauer was chairman of the refreshment committee. Nearly 50 members were present.

BURIED TODAY

Mrs. Eva Jones, 62, Victim of Spinal Meningitis.

Private funeral services were held at 4 p. m. today at Wappner Funeral home for Mrs. Eva B. Jones, 62, of 591 South Diamond street, who died in the Mansfield General hospital yesterday after a short illness of spinal meningitis. Rev. Paul Saleste, pastor of St. John's Evangelical church, officiated. Burial was in Mansfield cemetery.

Mrs. Jones was born Sept. 16, 1875 in Paris, O. She was the widow of the late Edward P. Jones and had lived in Mansfield for the past nine years. Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. George Mochoskay, with whom she made her home, and two sisters, Mrs. Mila Caley and Mrs. Bernice Jolley, both of Akron.

Mrs. Jones' death was the first fatality resulting from spinal meningitis in Richland county in more than a year, health authorities said.

VOTES TO STUDY SCHOOL PLANS

Junior Association Committee To Go Over Building Proposal.

Acting on a request of W. L. Miller, Mansfield superintendent of schools, the Junior Association of Commerce last night passed a resolution calling for a study of the city board of education's proposed $1,000,000 school building program.

Atty. Francis R. O'Brien, president of the association, named Frank Vild to head a committee to consider the board's proposal and report its findings at a later meeting. Other members of the committee are Ken Woodman and Robert Kuhn.

O'Brien appointed Glenn L. Mochel, John Martin, Howard Doner, Jerry King and Tom Wilson on a committee to arrange for a picnic in July.

OFFICIALS SEEK RELIEF FUNDS

May Place Special Tax on Automobiles to Finance Program.

SHELBY — With approximately $1,000 left in the city's relief fund appropriation, city officials today were faced with the necessity of looking for additional revenue to finance Sheby's relief program.

Although enough money remains in the fund to provide for relief here for two months, city officials said that additional taxes of some kind would be needed before fall to continue the present $1,000 a month spending program. An appropriation of $4,000 for poor relief was included in the budget this year, Bert Fix, director of finance, said.

Relief in this city since it was taken over from the county commissioners' in March has cost about $4,000, Gail Haun, public welfare clerk, estimated today. Of this amount approximately $1,900 has been received from the county commissioners as Shelby's share of the state revenue from sales tax receipts and beer and malt tax.

No definite tax has been decided on, but councilmen said that no mill levy was expected to be brought up at the primaries or in November for relief. A special tax on automobiles had been discussed during a recent council session. Seventy-five families are on relief here.

FINE SUSPENDED

Auto Dealer Cited on Charge of Failing to Collect Sales Tax.

Paul W. Auxter, proprietor of the Auxter Motor Sales company, 220 Park avenue west, yesterday entered a nolo contendere plea in municipal court to a charge of failing to collect sales tax and was fined $25 and costs. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended the fine on payment of the costs.

Auxter was cited by Mrs. Edith B. Metcalf, examiner for the state tax commission, who charged that he had failed to collect the sales tax on an automobile.

SPLITS $47,000 IN AUTO LICENSE FEES, SALES TAX

County Road, Street Departments Get $41,000, Rest Go to Subdivisions.

Richland county's road and street departments and local government units were $47 380 richer today with the distribution of automobile license fees and local government funds by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to counties.

Most of the allocation, or $41,328, was in auto license money which will be used for road and street construction and maintenance.

The county received $6,052 for local government expenses in the May distribution of sales tax receipts. Each city, village and township in the county will share in this distribution, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said.

Motor vehicle license fees received by other counties in this area included: Ashland, $19 584; Crawford, $22,248; Holmes, $8,136, Huron, $26,424, Knox, $16,272, and Morrow, $9,864.

County Gets $31,700.

In the re-distribution of the motor vehicle fees by Wolfe, the county road department received $31,728, while Mansfield got $7,500 and Shelby, $1,250 The funds are allocated on the basis of motor vehicle registrations

Allocations to the county's six incorporated villages included·

Bellville, $225 Plymouth, $200, Lexington, $175. Butler $125, Shiloh, $75, and Lucas $50

The state's distribution of license fees to the county was the second this year and brought the total allotted so far to about 60 per cent of the anticipated year's receipts from that source.

SEEKS $11,000 IN SUIT AGAINST TRUCKING FIRMS

Doctor Injured When Vehicle Hauling Liquor Struck His Car, Files Second Action.

A traffic accident involving a liquor truck and four automobiles on Park avenue east last Friday night had resulted today in the filing of a $10,979 damage suit in common pleas court by Dr. G. P. Rebold, Grand Island, Neb., who was injured in the crash.

The suit, which was the third filed in three days as a result of the accident, named the Brady Transfer and Storage company, Ft. Dodge, Ia., and the Jaffa Trucking company, Chicago, as defendants The latter firm is the owner of the truck, while the Brady company had sub-let a liquor dealing contract to the Chicago truckers

Dr. Rebold asks $10,000 for personal injuries and $979 to cover the loss of his car, which he says was demolished, medical expenses, cost of hotel rooms and board and train fare home for him and his family.

Attaches Truck.

A veterinarian, Dr. Rebold was riding in a car driven by his wife, who escaped injury. He previously had filed an attachment suit in municipal court for the loss of his automobile, valued at $700.

In his petition, filed by Atty. J. V. Will, Dr. Rebold contends that George K. Lawrence, Chicago, driver of the truck, was operating the vehicle at excessive speed on the wrong side of the highway. Lawrence is serving a 90-day sentence in the Richland county jail on a conviction for driving while under the influence of intoxicants

Another attachment suit was filed in municipal court two days ago by Fred Alacca, 275 Park avenue east, who asks $74 for damages to his automobile in the accident Friday night. Both attachment suits were against the tractor and trailer which were hauling 430 cases of whisky.

AUTO TAG PRICES REDUCED FRIDAY

Cost of Plates To Be Cut Fourth As Second Quarter Starts.

Auto license plates for the remainder of the year will be available Friday at a reduction of 25 per cent Frank Beverstock, deputy registrar, pointed out today. The first quarter of the fiscal year ends June 30

Beverstock said he believed that with the first reduction on plates this year, a number of cars which have been in "storage" since April 1, when the 1938 plates became effective, would be put into use again.

Up until today 1,053 less passenger car licenses have been issued than at this time last year, Beverstock said. To date 12,000 sets of license plates have been issued for passenger cars from the Mansfield office

DON'T LET A Skid RUIN YOUR HOLIDAY TRIP

NEW KIND OF TIRE GIVES YOU THE QUICKEST NON-SKID STOPS YOU'VE EVER SEEN

● With holiday traffic growing heavier every year, with long vacation trips just ahead, right now is the wise time to replace smooth, dangerous tires with new Goodrich Safety Silvertowns.

This sensational Silvertown is more than just a new tire—it's a NEW KIND OF TIRE! Inside it has the famous Golden Ply blow-out protection that has already saved thousands of motorists' lives. Outside it has the amazing new Life-Saver Tread—the wider, flatter deep-grooved tread that actually dries wet roads and gives you the quickest non-skid stops that you've ever had.

And don't forget when you have to stop fast—on wet roads or dry—a few inches may mean the difference between life and death. So come in today for a free demonstration of this new Goodrich safety sensation. Compare it with any other tire you've ever ridden on—regardless of price. Discover what it means to be SAVED BY A SILVERTOWN STOP.

PROOF! READ THE REPORT FROM AMERICA'S LARGEST INDEPENDENT TESTING LABORATORY

"BOTH regular, and also the premium-priced tires of America's six largest tire manufacturers were submitted to a series of exhaustive road tests made over a three months' period by us to determine their resistance to skidding and wear, with the following results:

"NON-SKID—The new Goodrich Silvertown with the Life-Saver Tread gave greater skid resistance than any other tire tested, including those tires listed at from 40% to 70% higher in price.

"MILEAGE—The Goodrich Silvertown gave more non-skid mileage than any of the other tires tested in its own price range—averaged 19.1% more miles before the tires wore smooth.

"BLOW-OUT PROTECTION—Despite the severe nature of these tests, no Silvertown Tire blew out or failed from any cause, while two tires of other makes failed."

HOLMES COUNTY RESIDENTS GET PEN SENTENCES

Uncle and Nephew to Serve Terms of One to 15 Years in Chicken Thefts.

MILLERSBURG—Clarence Domer, 60, and his nephew, Dan Domer, 31, were each given sentences at Ohio State penitentiary by Judge R. B. Putnam in common pleas court here.

Clarence was sentenced to serve one to 15 years on two counts, the sentences to run consecutively and Dan was given one to 15 years on the first count of one indictment and placed on probation for five years on the second count.

The latter pleaded guilty after the Holmes grand jury returned two indictments of two counts each against him. Clarence was found guilty after a court trial held here in common pleas court Monday.

The charges resulted from thefts of chickens and other farm produce from farmers of Holmes county. Numerous chicken thefts throughout the county were cleared up with the arrest and confession of the pair. Clarence Domer who lives four miles west of Sugarcreek is said to have maintained a chicken slaughter house where the stolen fowls were dressed and sold to markets in nearby towns.

FILES MAINTENANCE SUIT

MILLERSBURG—Mrs. Margaret Taylor Elliott has filed a separate maintenance suit against her husband, Charles Elliott, business man here. It is stated in the petition prepared by the law firm of Cary, Estill and Kuhn of Millersburg, that the couple was married Jan. 10, 1938, and on Feb. 1, 1938, the defendant evidenced a total lack of interest in her and that toward the end of March he told her that he had no love for her; that he missed his freedom and requested her to leave.

ATTACKS WILL

Nephew Risks Bequest to Fight Eccentric's Testament.

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—A suit to set aside the $1,100,000 will of William P. Devou, late wealthy eccentric, was on file today in Hamilton county common pleas court.

Paul Devou, San Francisco, a nephew, brought the action. He risks losing $100 monthly income left him in the will. A codicil provided that the nephew be deprived of any benefits if he contested the will.

Most of the millionaire's fortune was left for construction of a community house at Devou Park, Covington, Ky., at a cost of $50,000 to $75,000 and to permanent upkeep of the park.

The nephew, under terms of the original will, was to have received $50,000. If the suit is successful relatives will share in a division of real estate valued between $500,000 and $800,000.

TWINS BURIED

BUCYRUS — Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Henderson and Lutz funeral home for the twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Grau, who died soon after birth Monday. Larry died at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning and Jerry died at 5:45 Monday evening. Burial was made in Oakwood cemetery.

The infants were the only children. Survivors besides the parents are the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs William Holmes of Whetstone township, and the paternal grandmother, Mrs. Dora Grau, of Tod township.

HE'S OUT THE TIP, TOO

ST. CHARLES, Mo.—(AP)—Justice of the Peace George R. Hart is certain one couple is beginning married life under false pretenses. Hart cashed a $60 check for the couple after the marriage ceremony, then declined a $1 tip. The check bounced. "I wish now I'd taken the tip," he said.

WINS BY MUSTACHE

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—(AP)—The city council renewed Joseph Bornstein's liquor license, but only after a strange explanation for his conviction on a charge of selling liquor to two minors. Bornstein misjudged the youths' ages because they wore false moustaches —made of rabbit fur.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

MOTHER SKUNK

I WALKED along the gravel road that runs through our farm to see if the soybeans we planted a few days ago had sprouted. Since they were sown, last week, it has not rained but the soil was moist enough for them to germinate. I found them coming up dark green seed leaves breaking through the soil in every direction.

As I returned a short distance ahead, I saw a black and white creature cross the road, with five babies following. They walked slowly and did not change their pace, though the mother skunk must have known that I was near. The sly creature reached the ditch by the time I came up to the path she had made in the dust.

There, in the soft, moist earth of the trench, she dug some worms and gave them to her youngsters, who ate greedily. Then she reached a paw beneath some sickly looking grass stalks and pulled out a large, white writhing grubworm. Two little mouths pounced quickly upon it.

I walked closer and then it was I, in some peculiar language of their own, she told her youngsters to hide in the tall grass while she backed up toward me. Her furry tail waved limberly up and down. She stamped her feet at me and stood furrin between me and her offspring.

I knew well I was receiving due proof of plan. The warm skunk tried to tell me with all the emphasis she had at her command and she had much sent I should leave, that her high-lifted tail was not a flag of truce, that she would surely spray me if I came closer that she might even do so if I remained where I was that she didn't want to waste ammunition on such a sort as I unless it had to be.

I know that when the very highest lifted end of tail sutteren the victim could not escape I did not wait to argue. The Lord only knows how close that acrid heritage was upon me before I turned and made long tracks in the opposite direction.

RAINS DELUGE JAPANESE ISLES

21 Dead, 50,000 Homes Flooded By Severe Storms.

TOKYO—(AP)—Twenty-one persons were known dead and 15 were missing today as the worst rains in 20 years deluged all Japan's main islands.

At Yokohama a cliff caved in, crushing five homes and killing 12 persons, most of whom were believed to be Koreans. Other casualties included seven killed at Mito and Yokosuka when houses collapsed.

Almost 50,000 houses were flooded in Toyko. Railroads and power lines were disrupted.

proximately $20,000 more to Richland county than had been originally figured.

City and county officials, however, were still of the opinion that the program would be of no benefit to the sub-division which were without funds to match the state grants. Borrowing of 90 per cent of revenues anticipated during 1939-41 from utility excise, near-beer, admissions, malt and wort taxes would have been permitted.

The compromise plan calling for 70 per cent borrowing would have made approximately $81,000 available to Richland county to meet relief bills for the balance of the year. The balance of the anticipated revenues would be available in future years.

Under the revision of the 90 per cent borrowing plan the county would receive $104,000, or approximately $50,000 less than is anticipated for relief needs for the balance of 1938.

City officials pointed out that the plan had its benefits if the city had the available monies to match the anticipated funds.

CAVALCADE SET

Rehearsal of All Units to Be Held Tomorrow Night.

A general rehearsal of all of the units and episodes that will be a part of the historical cavalcade presented at the fairground, Fourth of July, will be held at 7 p. m. Thursday at the fairgrouids.

The revolving stage will not be used for the rehearsal, according to J. Gilbert Baird, director, but all of the acts will be rehearsed in the infield opposite the grandstand.

Horses for the pioneer episodes will be furnished by the Mansfield Riding academy.

The Mansfield City Parks association, which is sponsoring the all-day celebration and fireworks display, said today that in case of rain next Monday, the whole program and fireworks would be held over until the following Saturday.

DECLARED DEAD

BUCYRUS — Settlement of the estate of Mary Heller, who left her home Feb. 18, 1905 and has never been seen or heard of since, enriches the county's general fund $1,551.31 according to an entry in probate court today. Mary Heller was declared dead by Judge Constance R. Keller on application by Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon. S. E Kiess is trustee of the estate.

FUNERAL SET

Rites for A. J. Steinhelfer to Be Held in Chicago.

GALION—Funeral services will be held Thursday morning in St. Peter's Catholic church, Chicago, for Andrew J. Steinhelfer, 59, a native of Galion and Chicago railroad man. He died Monday morning at Chicago Polyclinic hospital, according to word received here by his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Steinhelfer, who will attend the services in Chicago.

The deceased had been a switchman until three years ago when he was forced to retire because of ill health. He was born in Galion Dec. 2, 1878, and was a son of George W. and Mary Ann (Halman) Steinhelfer. He left Galion 35 years ago for Chicago. His marriage took place 28 years ago in Chicago and he is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Walter Linn, and two grandchildren. Two brothers, Walter C., of Galion, and William H., of Bellefontaine, and a sister, Mrs. Sadie Karl, of Chicago, also survive. A twin brother, George W., died five years ago.

VANDERBILT DIES

Member of Railroad-Owning Family Was 83.

HYDE PARK, N. Y. — (AP) — Frederick William Vanderbilt, 83, capitalist, railroad director and yachting enthusiast, died at his country home here after a week's illness.

Vanderbilt followed in the footsteps of his father and two older brothers in the railroad business, but did not attain the high positions they reached, nor did he attract as much public attention.

He was a director of numerous railroads and other corporations.

Unlike his father, the late William Henry Vanderbilt, and his brothers, Cornelius and William K., he was extremely unassuming. He is survived by his widow, the former Mrs. Alfred Torrence.

DEATH CLAMS GEORGE KREITER AT GALION HOME

Well Known Resident Dead at 71; Funeral Services to Be Held Friday.

GALION—George Kreiter, 71, of 554 South Union street, well known Galion resident, died Tuesday evening at 6:45 o'clock of complications following an illness of one year. He had been bedfast four weeks.

He was born Mar. 11, 1867, in Germany, and came to this country when he was one year old.

He was married to Grace L. Shea on May 29, 1896, and she died in May, 1937.

Surviving are one son, Lorenzo, at home; a brother, Henry of Galion; and two sisters, Mrs. Anna Eichler and Mrs. Anthony Bechtol, both of Galion. A daughter, Ruth, died 17 years ago.

He had been a machinist at the E. M. Freese and company for a number of years, and was a member of Peace Lutheran church, and the Modern Woodman of America lodge.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the Snyder funeral home. Rev. R. E. Porter of Wooster, former pastor of the Galion Presbyterian church, will officiate. Burial will be made in Fairview cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

EX-JUDGE SPEAKS

GALION—The speaker for the monthly business and social meeting of the Men's Brotherhood class at the First Reformed church Tuesday night was W. J. Schwenk of Bucyrus, former probate judge and now a candidate for judge of the court of appeals. He told of the duties of the probate court.

The program was in charge of Herman Eichhorn, and other features included a violin number by Robert Rehl, and a piano number by Genevieve Shumaker. Business was in charge of Roy Eichhorn when plans were made for a picnic to be held next month.

Fred Hessenauer was chairman of the refreshment committee. Nearly 50 members were present.

BURIED TODAY

Mrs. Eva Jones, 62, Victim of Spinal Meningitis.

Private funeral services were held at 4 p. m. today at Wappner Funeral home for Mrs. Eva B. Jones, 62, of 591 South Diamond street, who died in the Mansfield General hospital yesterday after a short illness of spinal meningitis. Rev. Paul Saleste, pastor of St. John's Evangelical church, officiated. Burial was in Mansfield cemetery.

Mrs. Jones was born Sept. 16, 1875 in Paris, O. She was the widow of the late Edward P. Jones and had lived in Mansfield for the past nine years. Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. George Mochoskay, with whom she made her home, and two sisters, Mrs. Mila Caley and Mrs. Bernice Jolley, both of Akron.

Mrs. Jones' death was the first fatality resulting from spinal meningitis in Richland county in more than a year, health authorities said.

VOTES TO STUDY SCHOOL PLANS

Junior Association Committee To Go Over Building Proposal.

Acting on a request of W. L. Miller, Mansfield superintendent of schools, the Junior Association of Commerce last night passed a resolution calling for a study of the city board of education's proposed $1,000,000 school building program.

Atty. Francis R. O'Brien, president of the association, named Frank Vild to head a committee to consider the board's proposal and report its findings at a later meeting. Other members of the committee are Ken Woodman and Robert Kuhn.

O'Brien appointed Glenn L. Mochel, John Martin, Howard Doner, Jerry King and Tom Wilson on a committee to arrange for a picnic in July.

OFFICIALS SEEK RELIEF FUNDS

May Place Special Tax on Automobiles to Finance Program.

SHELBY — With approximately $1,000 left in the city's relief fund appropriation, city officials today were faced with the necessity of looking for additional revenue to finance Sheby's relief program.

Although enough money remains in the fund to provide for relief here for two months, city officials said that additional taxes of some kind would be needed before fall to continue the present $1,000 a month spending program. An appropriation of $4,000 for poor relief was included in the budget this year, Bert Fix, director of finance, said.

Relief in this city since it was taken over from the county commissioners' in March has cost about $4,000, Gail Haun, public welfare clerk, estimated today. Of this amount approximately $1,900 has been received from the county commissioners as Shelby's share of the state revenue from sales tax receipts and beer and malt tax.

No definite tax has been decided on, but councilmen said that no mill levy was expected to be brought up at the primaries or in November for relief. A special tax on automobiles had been discussed during a recent council session. Seventy-five families are on relief here.

FINE SUSPENDED

Auto Dealer Cited on Charge of Failing to Collect Sales Tax.

Paul W. Auxter, proprietor of the Auxter Motor Sales company, 220 Park avenue west, yesterday entered a nolo contendere plea in municipal court to a charge of failing to collect sales tax and was fined $25 and costs. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended the fine on payment of the costs.

Auxter was cited by Mrs. Edith B. Metcalf, examiner for the state tax commission, who charged that he had failed to collect the sales tax on an automobile.

SPLITS $47,000 IN AUTO LICENSE FEES, SALES TAX

County Road, Street Departments Get $41,000, Rest Go to Subdivisions.

Richland county's road and street departments and local government units were $47 380 richer today with the distribution of automobile license fees and local government funds by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to counties

Most of the allocation or $41,328, was in auto license money which will be used for road and street construction and maintenance.

The county received $6,052 for local government expenses in the May distribution of sales tax recepits. Each city, village and township in the county will share in this distribution Auditor Norman L Wolfe said

Motor vehicle license fees received by other counties in this area included Ashland, $19 581; Crawford, $22 248, Holmes, $8,136, Huron, $26,424 Knox, $16,272, and Morrow, $9,864

County Gets $31,700.

In the re-distribution of the motor vehicle fees by Wolfe the county road department received $31,728, while Mansfield got $7-500 and Shelby, $1,250 The funds are allocated on the basis of motor vehicle registrations.

Allocations to the county's six incorporated villages included Bellville, $225 Plymouth, $200. Lexington $175 Butler, $125. Shiloh, $75 and Lucas $50.

The state's distribution of license fees to the county was the second this year and brought the total allotted so far to about 60 per cent of the anticipated year's receipts from that source

SEEKS $11,000 IN SUIT AGAINST TRUCKING FIRMS

Doctor Injured When Vehicle Hauling Liquor Struck His Car, Files Second Action.

A traffic accident involving a liquor truck and four automobiles on Park avenue east last Friday night had resulted today in the filing of a $10,979 damage suit in common pleas court by Dr. G P Rebold, Grand Island, Neb, who was injured in the crash.

The suit, which was the third filed in three days as a result of the accident, named the Brady Transfer and Storage company, Ft. Dodge, Ia., and the Jaffa Trucking company, Chicago, as defendants. The latter firm is the owner of the truck, while the Brady company had sub-let a liquor dealing contract to the Chicago truckers.

Dr. Rebold asks $10,000 for personal injuries and $979 to cover the loss of his car, which he says was demolished, medical expenses, cost of hotel rooms and board and train fare home for him and his family.

Attaches Truck.

A veterinarian, Dr Rebold was riding in a car driven by his wife, who escaped injury. He previously had filed an attachment suit in municipal court for the loss of his automobile, valued at $700

In his petition, filed by Atty J V. Will, Dr. Rebold contends that George K. Lawrence, Chicago, driver of the truck, was operating the vehicle at excessive speed on the wrong side of the highway Lawrence is serving a 90-day sentence in the Richland county jail on a conviction for driving while under the influence of intoxicants

Another attachment suit was filed in municipal court two days ago by Fred Alacca, 275 Park avenue east, who asks $74 for damages to his automobile in the accident Friday night. Both attachment suits were against the tractor and trailer which were hauling 430 cases of whisky.

AUTO TAG PRICES REDUCED FRIDAY

Cost of Plates To Be Cut Fourth As Second Quarter Starts.

Auto license plates for the remainder of the year will be available Friday at a reduction of 25 per cent Frank Beverstock, deputy registrar, pointed out today. The first quarter of the fiscal year ends June 30.

Beverstock said he believed that with the first reduction on plates this year, a number of cars which have been in "storage" since April 1, when the 1938 plates became effective, would be put into use again.

Up until today 1,053 less passenger car licenses have been issued than at this time last year, Beverstock said. To date 12,060 sets of license plates have been issued for passenger cars from the Mansfield office.

NEW KIND OF TIRE GIVES YOU THE QUICKEST NON-SKID STOPS YOU'VE EVER SEEN

● With holiday traffic growing heavier every year, with long vacation trips just ahead, right now is the wise time to replace smooth, dangerous tires with new Goodrich Safety Silvertowns.

This sensational Silvertown is more than just a new tire—it's a NEW KIND OF TIRE! Inside it has the famous Golden Ply blow-out protection that has already saved thousands of motorists' lives. Outside it has the amazing new Life-Saver Tread—the wider, flatter deep-grooved tread that actually dries wet roads and gives you the quickest non-skid stops that you've ever had.

And don't forget when you have to stop fast—on wet roads or dry—a few inches may mean the difference between life and death. So come in today for a free demonstration of this new Goodrich safety sensation. Compare it with any other tire you've ever ridden on—regardless of price. Discover what it means to be SAVED BY A SILVERTOWN STOP.

PROOF! READ THE REPORT FROM AMERICA'S LARGEST INDEPENDENT TESTING LABORATORY

"BOTH regular, and also the premium-priced tires of America's six largest tire manufacturers were submitted to a series of exhaustive road tests made over a three months' period by us to determine their resistance to skidding and wear, with the following results:

"NON-SKID—The new Goodrich Silvertown with the Life-Saver Tread gave greater skid resistance than any other tire tested, including those tires listed at from 40% to 70% higher in price.

"MILEAGE—The Goodrich Silvertown gave more non-skid mileage than any of the other tires tested in its own price range—averaged 19.1% more miles before the tires wore smooth."

"BLOW-OUT PROTECTION—Despite the severe nature of these tests, no Silvertown Tire blew out or failed from any cause, while two tires of other makes failed."

FIND MANSFIELD FIRM ILLEGALLY GOT PAVING JOB

Board of Professors Attacks 'Irregularities'; Duffy Hints at Investigation.

10-mile radial zone around the Mansfield plant for 50 cents per ton. If these figures are applied to the Bloomville plant the cost of the haul can be taken as 50 cents per ton.

"If the base prices ($5.30 for binder and $5.80 for surface material) the cost of haul and the cost of finishing are added, the results are $6.40 and $6 90 per ton for binder and surface course material, respectively Converted to cubic yard prices, these prices would be $12.00 for binder and $12.93 for surface material

"The price actually paid on the work was $16 18 per cubic yard for both binder and surface material. The difference is $4 18 per cubic yard on binder and $3 25 per cubic yard for wearing course material.

"An estimate prepared by using the general bid as a base is unquestionably liberal. Even on this basis, however, it has been shown that the estimate made by the department was inflated and the prices paid were excessive," the board found

The board then found as follows:

1. The project described and covered by invitation to bid No 954 was constructed under a contract illegally let

"2. The bidders on the project were in collusion as evidenced by the bids and had knowledge of the unofficial and unpublished departmental estimate

"3. This department estimate prepared for the project was inflated."

500-Page Report.

Revealing many other abuses, the official report of the board made public for the first time late yesterday, covered more than 500 typewritten pages, and was submitted to Davey's secretary, Mrs. Myrna Smith, by Prof Morris of the Ohio State university engineering department.

No comment was forthcoming from either the governor or Highway Director John Jaster until they have an opportunity to study the board's findings.

Besides Professor Morris, the university men who made a lengthy inquiry into highway department practices after irregularities had been charged, were John C. Prior, Ohio State; M. S. Douglas and George E. Barnes of the Case School of Applied Science, and Ray Crepps and B. H. Petty of Purdue university.

Charges Collusion.

Collusion in the bidding on state bituminous concrete paving jobs existed between contractors and highway maintenance payrolls were quadrupled just before the general election in 1936, the report disclosed.

It showed that monthly payrolls rose to more than three times the average during the May 12 primary election in 1936 and then fell the next month, only to rise gradually to four times the average by the Nov. 3 general election. The next month the payroll fell back to the average of approximately $20,000.

Lacks U. S. Confidence.'

Two major charges against the Davey administration of the highway department in the official report of the board, signed by all six members, were:

1. The manipulation of bituminous paving contracts by the highway department "in some instances but not a majority of cases," and

2. The present administration does not enjoy the confidence of the U. S Bureau of Public Roads.

Prefacing its report with the statement that "it is believed that neither political party can assume a holier than thou attitude," the board went on to say that the fault lies with the administrations which have been in power.

Reports Conclusions.

The report set forth these conclusions:

1—"Charges that the state was paying more for reinforced concrete than Iowa and Wisconsin—states cited by the newspapers as having excellent highway administrations—show that costs in Ohio are no greater than those in other states.

2.—"Comparisons of bituminous concrete prices paid by the department with prices paid by the political subdivisions . . . show that the state paid more in some instances for comparable items . . . in other instances the reverse is true.

3—"The relative short length of Ohio highway projects has not operated to increase costs as compared with Iowa and Wisconsin . . . and average costs of maintenance . . . have been higher than for systems of neighboring states, but, on the basis of accurate comparisons, have not been excessive.

'Hot Mix No Cheaper'

4—"Hot mix, intended as a cheaper asphaltic concrete to be used where suitable aggregates for cold mix were not available locally, has failed in its purpose of providing a cheaper asphaltic concrete pavement.

5—"Competition for contractors of federal aid projects has been keener than for those financed entirely by the state.

6—"Reliance upon competition, rather than upon careful and accurate estimating, is not sufficient to control prices on types of projects for which there is limited competition.

7—"The evidence supports the conclusion that there has been prearrangement among bidders as to who would secure awards of contracts for hot mix projects complimentary bidding (submitting a bid known to be high, that one another's bid) has been frequent on state projects.

Political Implications.

Enlarging upon what it termed political implications,' the board stated in the official report:

"There are employes of the department who have collected political contributions There is no evidence to indicate a connection between the recorded contributions of contractors to political funds and the contracts received by them.

"The statute prohibiting solicitation of political contributions from civil service employes should be rigidly enforced and political organizations should be required to keep an adequate set of books recording all receipts and expenditures, which set of books should be audited each year and made a part of the public records."

Opposes 'Interference'.

Te report of the Davey-appointed board lauded the single director system of control but declared the appointive director should be given executive authority contemplated by statute and "be freed from political interference."

"An earnest effort should be made by the department and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads," the report continued, "to adjust their differences and to cooperate for the benefit of the public. It is believed by the board of inquiry that this can be done by joint conference between the director and the chief of the bureau of public roads, provided that the necessary authority be given the director by the governor to make changes deemed desirable."

U. S. Engineer Quoted.

W. V Buck, senior engineer of the U. S. bureau of public roads stationed in Columbus, was quoted in the official report as declaring to the inquiry board:

"The bureau has more engineers in Ohio on inspection than it normally should have This increase in the number of inspectors has been made necessary by a very large number of projects on which inspection by representatives of the state highway department is of inferior quality."

The board reported that the federal engineers maintain that Ohio inspection is inadequate but that a number of contractors and Charles H. Duncan, secretary of the Ohio Contractors association, declared the fault lay with the federal government:

Duncan was quoted in the report as follows:

"If there is any situation that cries to high heaven for someone to go into it who is big enough to straighten it out, that is this situation. I want to tell you gentlemen something.

"I don't represent any set of amateurs. I have a lot of people in my organization who have been doing this business from 20 to 30 years, doing a lot of good work all over the United States and I know they know how to do good work.

Scares U. S. Officials.

"We can't build work to the satisfaction of this Ohio office of the bureau of public roads. Mr. Buck and two or three of his associates are persuaded that nothing in Ohio is right. I think they were told that by their superiors."

Arthur Miller, president of the Holmes Construction company, told the board:

"I had an extreme lot of trouble at Lorain due to the fact that it was a federal air job and I found lack of co-ordination between the federal and state departments When I came down to Columbus several times, I had to fight to find out who was really the man in authority

"You gentlemen are well aware of the fact that you can't work for two or three heads"

Miller went on to say, according to the report, that the lack of coordination does not exist in Pennsylvania where he also operates, adding his belief that "you are getting just as good work in Ohio as in Pennsylvania but it is difficult and more unpleasant because you have that interference"

Cites Employment Boost.

Enlarging on political activity of the highway department the board said:

"The inflation of the payroll at the time of the August primary of 1934 is the most marked of any shown . . . This was the time when Mr. George White, then governor was a candidate for the nomination for U S senator After his defeat the payroll for the state as a whole sank to near normal at the time of the November election

"The rise in the Cleveland area for the year 1934 does not follow the trend of the state as a whole At that time Governor Davey was a candidate at both the primary and the general election and John Jaster, jr was division engineer in that district.

"The only reason the board can assign for the marked increase in the payroll in the Cleveland division at election time is that Mr Jaster might have been interested in the election of Mr Davey while the department as a whole may not have been so much interested in the outcome of the general election

Tells of Contribution

The report quotes Roger Wilson a former employe of the highway department, as saying he gave a campaign contribution to an individual who banked it under the individual's name

Asked if that person was in the employ of the highway department Wilson said:

"Yes sir In employe during Jaster's time there was Fred Buckley, politician, who didn't do anything except collect money."

"This statement" the board said "supports charges made in newspapers No other specific instances of this kind came to the attention of the board

Hints at Other Collections

The report listed the contributions of deputy directors and Frank West registrar of motor vehicles to the Democratic state executive committee for 1936 as:

J R Ault $1 650 Fred Biechele $3 451 H F Colvin $1 111 Joseph Doyle $1 700 L [illegible]ssler $5 108 B H Frasch $6 480 Harry Miller $500 A F Ranney $2 126, Harry Sharp $1 200, Carl A Smith $550 W F Stropher $1 320 W F Turner, $2 550 Walter Willard $3 897 Frank West $8 711

In conclusions the report said "The amounts of these contributions in several instances, exceed the annual salaries of the persons credited with them, which would indicate that the money turned in did not all come from the personal funds of these men but must have been the result of collections

IRVINGTON, N. Y. — Hedi Heusser stepped out of her negligee into a becoming blue dress today, and stalked out of Rollo K. Blanchard's big brick house muttering a series of plaintive remarks, all starting with "if"

"If he's a gentleman," she said of the absent host in whose 24-room home she had staged a nine-day matrimonial sit-in strike, "he'll marry me

"If he's a gentleman, he will make arrangements"

Mrs. Heusser, red-haired, divorced wife of a Swiss ski salesman, established herself in one of Blanchard's best bedrooms June 20 and said she wouldn't budge until he followed up the gift of an engagement ring with marriage

The 50-year-old manufacturer left when Hedi moved in, leaving behind four detectives to guard the house

LABOR HEARING DRAWS TO CLOSE

Testimony Ended, Examiner to Inspect Records of Ohio Brass This Afternoon.

"I told Daugherty (the foreman) to go back and perhaps the difficulties could be ironed out. He told me that Tony had caused disturbances over piece-work, over dressing tools and that he was having trouble generally with Tony," Bair said

The witness described as the "last straw" which led to Colace's discharge an incident in which Colace allegedly refused to take work assigned to him.

Asked by Thomas F Veach a company attorney, whether at the time of Colace's discharge, he had knowledge that the employe was a member of the Electrical Workers' union, Bair replied that he knew "absolutely nothing about it"

Bair explained that before a workman is discharged, his foreman must first confer with him, except in cases of flagrant violation of rules The workman is granted interviews with the foreman's superiors if he feels that his discharge is unjust Bair said.

In cross-examination of Bair, Atty Max W Johnstone, counsel for the electrical union, introduced into the record Colace's service card as an employe of the company.

The record showed that for a period of time, Colace had been given a rating of "good" as to his ability, character, deportment, loyalty and application Later, the record showed, his rating as to deportment was recorded as "fair" and for character and loyalty the rating was left blank He retained "good" ratings for ability and application during the later period

In rebuttal testimony, Atty Johnstone recalled Colace to the stand Colace denied he had refused to do work assigned him jerked trucks from casting racks or was otherwise troublesome as company witnesses who were also workmen in Colace's department had testified earlier in the hearing

Colace denied also that he and James Warrack a discharged foreman, were associated politically Warrack was a Republican central committeeman, the witness said

The final rebuttal witness was Warrack who also denied political connections with Colace and denied interences by witnesses that Colace's work was allowed to pass his inspection while other work was rejected.

Yesterday afternoon's testimony was largely a repetition of statements made earlier by company workman-witnesses who claimed Colace was a "troublesome" employe.

C W "Ted" Daugherty, foreman of the department, was on the stand for the bulk of the afternoon

He confirmed earlier testimony that Colace ignored his orders, and that Colace had failed to co-operate for several years, when Daugherty was assistant foreman

Daugherty said that "several times he reported acts of failure to obey orders on the part of Colace to Warrack, then foreman, and Baer plant superintendent

His recommendations to discharge Colace were disregarded by both of his superiors, Daugherty testified

The witness remarked that Warrack, later discharged as foreman, appeared to have a political interest in Colace, explaining

"Warrack was a central committeeman and it seemed that he depended on Colace to swing part of the Italian vote to his party"

Daugherty testified that there were 28 workmen in his department in August, 1937 at peak production for that year that in September six were laid off, five in October and eight in November.

During that period, he testified, operations of the department dropped from a high of 800 000 pounds of material used in August, to 200 000 pounds in November

Questions of seniority rights were excluded from the hearing when the trial examiner ruled that since the company admitted Colace was discharged and not laid off the only question for decision was whether he was discharged because of union activities or for proper reasons

ARMCO CLAIMS NLRB CHARGES ONCE SETTLED

Steel Firm Says Regional Director Held Company Complied With Act.

CATLETTSBURG, Ky.—(AP)—The American Rolling Mill Company counsel demanded today an immediate opportunity to present evidence seeking to show that certain of the Wagner Labor act charges brought against the company had been settled previously.

Examiner George Bokat of the National Labor Relations Board allowed the motion, abruptly suspending testimony by Frank E Vigor, works manager of the company's Ashland, Ky., plant.

Bokat accepted as evidence correspondence between the regional NLRB and Robert J. Caldwell, Ashland attorney for the company.

The examiner said he probably would rule on it July 5 when the hearing will resume following an expected adjournment today

A letter from Philip G. Phillips, regional NLRB director, to Caldwell, said in part

"I have studied your proposal (to correct certain conditions within the Ashland plant, which the board said violated the Wagner Labor act), very carefully and find that the letter, plus the bulletin quoting the section of the act, constitute satisfactory compliance, and I am therefore closing my files in the matter"

Asked Other Charges.

Cornelius J Petzhold of Cincinnati, O member of the ARMCO legal staff, interrupted questioning of Vigor by Phillips to seek to determine what charges would be considered if Bokat sustained the company motion

The company contended that since June 16, 1937, it had conformed with a settlement effected between it and Phillips, following a previous complaint that the firm violated the Wagner act

Vigor refused to heed a government subpoena to produce all records damanded by the board, many of which dated back to 1933

"The settlement made June 16, 1937, is binding and canot affect certain of these charges," Petzhold declared.

He demanded an immediate hearing of the motion made Monday asking Bokat to dismiss all charges which the company maintained were covered by the settlement

A magazine article "John L. Lewis dictator," which Phillips attempted to show was distributed to employes precipitated the unexpected turn in the hearing.

Vigor said it had been distributed prior to June 16, 1937.

Museum Displays Statue Carved By Mansfielder's Kin

In the famous Ford museum of Early Americana at Greenfield, near Detroit, is a funny little wooden statue, in which Newton DeWees, 479 West Fourth street, has a particular interest.

The statue, which represents a peddler of 130 years ago, was carved from a solid block of wood by Geoge DeWees, grandfather of the Mansfield man, in 1808. It was made in Sunken Springs, Burks county, Pa and remained in the possesion of the family until recently when it was presented to the Ford museum.

The little statue shows the early American peddler as he started on his house-to-house rounds; sometimes he carried food supplies and sometimes notions That funny looking chapeau was more practican than stylish, for it also was used as a storage space for merchandise.

HEART ON HER SLEEVE

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

(Copyright, 1938)

CHAPTER VII

Moleen made a supreme effort to sound natural.

"Oh, no." She sat down obediently. "I have a good job. That's all."

"It must be a very good one, the way you're looking. And stepping out with the daughter of the district attorney. Sunny Tucker is in your party. To say nothing of your handsome baritone."

"I've been very lucky." Moleen swallowed the lump in her throat. If you'll excuse me, Charlie,' I must go. They'll be wondering where I am."

Charlie said rudely. "Keep your shirt on, Mollie! No rush. Tell an old friend about all this luck. A few days ago I pass you on Seventh avenue going into a ham-and joint looking like something the cat dragged in. Tonight, well, you can't blame an old friend for being curious."

"Why," Moleen bit her lip to keep her voice steady. "Do you want to know so much? I'm telling you the truth. I've got a good job Miss Laine gave me these clothes. She came along and found me very ill in Central Park and took me home with her. That's all. And it's the truth. I live there. I'm her—secretary."

Charlie whistled.

"Boy, are you in luck. This'll be swell news for Patsy."

Moleen whitened.

"For—Pat Why, Charlie?"

"Why not? You hobnobbing with the D. A.'s daughter—living in his house! You know if it hadn't been for Tom Laine your brother wouldn't be in stir now."

"It—isn't true! Mr. Laine had nothing to do with it."

Charlie laughed unpleasantly.

"He started the clean-up, didn't he? That's how that counterfeiting gang Patsy was mixed up with got rounded up and caught."

"Oh," Moleen felt very ill, "I see what you mean"

"And you see what I mean by being in a swell spot. Why, baby, if you play your cards right you can spring Pat in no time."

Moleen leaned back against the bench, her heart thudding coldly.

"You mustn't talk like that, Charlie." Her voice shook. "You know I wouldn't do anything wrong. I'd give my life to see Patsy free, because I don't believe he meant to pass that counterfeit. But I couldn't betray Mr. Laine or Mignon."

"Who said anything about betraying?" Charlie leaned toward her. "We'll get something on him! Every guy has something in his past or his present that'd hang him"

"Not Mr Laine!" Moleen shook her head. "He's a very fine man. And his daughter is an angel. They've been so good to me"

"I've always wanted to meet an angel." Charlie blew a smoke ring from his cigaret, smiling. "Meeting you is a swell break. And in with the D A.'s daughter would suit me swell. An up and coming young lawyer. What say?"

* * *

Moleen got up, her knees trembling. But she said firmly, "Charlie Farro, I don't know what you're up to. But you're not going to get acquainted with Mignon Laine through me. I'm going. Good-bye!"

Charlie reached out and took her arm.

"Not so fast, Mollie, darlin'. Aren't you being a little foolish? You seem to forget I know who you are."

"So does Miss Laine!" Moleen flared.

"No doubt," Charlie smiled. "But does she know your brother is in the reformatory serving a stiff sentence for counterfeiting?"

Moleen sat down again on the bench.

"Charlie!" she gasped "You wouldn't tell her. You—wouldn't do that!"

It's swell stuff." Farro laughed unpleasantly. "Daughter of district attorney plays angel to starving sister of boy her father sent to prison. But I don't imagine you'd stay very long if the D. A. knew your brother was a member of the Rafetti gang."

Again Moleen saw all her lovely dreams at an end. She was back on the streets again looking for a job. Mignon would surely think she had been dishonest if she found out her brother was branded a criminal and she had not told her.

Suddenly Moleen realized the opportunity she had for helping Pat. But in a different way from what Farro had suggested. Perhaps when she had been with the Laine's longer, and they really grew to know her and trust her, she would tell Mignon and together they could influence her father to look into Pat's case

* * *

She was so sure Pat's innocence could be proved. There had been no money for a lawyer and he was only 18. Maybe he would have been freed if he hadn't been afraid to talk. A scared kid who had been thrown into bad company, railroaded to the reformatory along with ten other young boys who were supposed to have passed the counterfeit.

Moleen was silent for so long that Charlie said impatiently, "Well, what is it, Toots? Yes or no? Do I meet the angel?"

Despising herself for her lack of courage, Moleen got up.

"I guess so, Charlie. But promise me—you'll be a gentleman?"

Farro smiled wisely. On the way back he issued rapid instructions.

"I'm an old friend of the family and you bumped into me. I'll do the rest."

Mignon and Jed were having another dance when they walked inside. Sunny Tucker was sitting at the table. Moleen was glad for a chance to get her bearings when, after introductions, the two men fell to discussing the Yankees' chances of winning the pennant. It came about because a famous pitcher was sitting at the next table.

Sunny went back to the band as Mignon and Jed approached the table. Charlie stood up and held out his hand to Moleen.

"Well, it was nice seeing you, Molly."

"You—must meet Miss Laine, Charlie" Moleen tried to sound light. "Miss Laine, I want you to know an old friend of my family, Charlie Farro. And, Mr. Patrick, Mr. Farro"

Mignon detained Charlie graciously.

"Oh, don't go, Mr. Farro. You must join us. Sunny is terribly busy and we need another man. Really. Are you alone?"

"Fortunately." Farro smiled and sat down. "This is an unexpected pleasure."

Charlie Farro was not disliked by husbands and boy friends for nothing. He had an almost fatal charm where women were concerned. Tall, dark brown eyes, blackhaired. He was very foreign-looking and when wearing his best manner, could easily have been mistaken for a latin of excellent family.

Glib of tongue and gallant; a gentleman with brass knuckles under his kid gloves.

* * *

The very fact that he was an old friend of Moleen was interesting to Mignon. She was impressed most favorably with the fact that the charming Mr. Farro knew Moleen so well. It spoke well for Moleen's background, even if her family had been poor.

Only Jed sensed the change in Moleen and realized that a cloud had fallen over her happiness. For he had noticed Farro trying to catch Moleen's eye and had seen her start when she recognized him

But he laid her distress to the fact that seeing someone she knew had made her realize what a small world it was, and that it had been a shock to have old memories brought back to her. It was natural that she should be embarrassed at being discovered by an old friend in her new setting No doubt there had been embarrassing explanations Certainly Jed had demanded that she explain to him when he met her in their doorway.

It was evident from the first that Mignon and Farro were going to click. Dancing, they were a handsome couple, the stunningly gowned blonde and the dark, almost too handsome Farro.

Mignon came back to the table bubbling with enthusiasm.

"Darling!" she cried happily to Moleen, when she sat down, "You've just introduced me to the most marvelous dancer in the world. My dear he's going to teach me how to really tango!"

* * *

At three o'clock Moleen, reveling in cold cream, lotion and all the toiletries she had never had before, sat in front of her dressing table going over the events of the evening

Sunny Tucker had invited her to lunch. But she hadn't accepted until she asked Mignon if she cared. Mignon had laughed happily

"Bless you, my children," she said. "I am going horseback riding and to luncheon with your friend, Mr. Farro. I was worried what you'd do with yourself, Moleen."

So—Charlie Farro was working fast. A small frown gathered between Moleen's eyes and she stared into the mirror unseeingly. If only she had the courage to warn Mignon that Farro wasn't the sort of man for her to know. But there were so many things at stake.

Patsy's freedom. Her own security. Truthfully, she was afraid of Charlie Farro, she admitted to herself. It was an unnamed fear, but very real. Farro had never been in trouble, and he had a lot of money and a good education. But she knew he must have a definite reason for wanting to know Mignon Laine. It was unlikely the reason was a good one.

She could only hope against hope that the reason was only that he thought it would help his law business to know the daughter of a man as prominent as Tom Laine. Brightening, she tried to make herself believe that was it. Charlie was ambitious socially too. Naturally, he wanted to know prominent people.

Her conscience had eased a little when Mignon knocked on the door. She was in negligee and cold cream covered her face.

Mignon curled up on Moleen's bed for a visit.

"You had a grand time, didn't you, Molly?"

Moleen sighed. "A wonderful time! The best fun I've ever had in my whole life."

Mignon echoed her sigh.

"So did I have a marvelous time. Thanks to you. Your friend Farro is the best looking thing these old eyes have had sight of in many a long day And what a dancer!"

"I—I'm glad you like him." Moleen felt shamefully deceitful the minute the words were out of her mouth.

"We can have some wonderful times together! There's nothing I really get a kick out of but dancing. And he's the best dancer I've ever met. It isn't often I meet a man who likes to dance as well as I do. When I do, he's usually terrible, I'm dying to learn all the dances Charlie knows that I don't."

"I'm sure he'll enjoy teaching you"

Mignon yawned cozily.

"The young man certainly has a way with him. And Jed! Isn't he a sweet thing? If they're a sample of your taste in men, I'm awfully glad to have met you, Miss O'Dare."

"You're welcome." Moleen smiled. "But I'm afraid that just about exhausts my list."

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 29, 1938

If the depression is made permanent everybody will have an excuse for failure.

With congress adjourned and the leads chosen for "Gone With the Wind," some of the minor matters may now be taken up.

The strategy of the Chinese should not be underestimated, as they seem to be able to call a flood to their aid when the situation becomes desperate.

Fear Tragic Holiday Is Ahead.

ONE of the year's most dangerous week-ends is coming along. Police authorities in many cities are preparing for what they fear will be one of the worst Fourths in many years.

Three-day holidays are always bad, from the standpoint of highway accidents, but the Fourth of July is regarded as particularly dangerous on account of the continuance of sale and use of fireworks and other explosives in some towns and cities, as well as the spirit of carousal which leads to even more drunken driving than ordinary.

Mansfield's decision to finance a public celebration, with an elaborate fireworks display in the evening, is probably as good a way as any to provide community entertainment and minimize danger.

But already it is noted that roadside fireworks stands have been opened just outside of the corporation line. It should be remembered that it is against the law to sell OR USE fireworks inside the city. The strictest possible enforcement of this ordinance may well be regarded as an important duty of the police department during this week-end and through next Monday.

When Outgo Exceeds Income.

FOLD-UP of "the greatest show on earth," Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus, in mid-season, is more than a temporary business failure—it may mark the end of this sort of big amusement enterprises moving from place to place over the country to entertain millions of children and adults.

Conditions under which the circus found it necessary to return to winter quarters in Florida, after a desperate effort on the part of the management to combat labor troubles and solve financial difficulties, provides an excellent illustration of what can happen when there is lack of employe-employer co-operation.

It was frankly explained by the circus management that there was not enough money coming in to pay salaries, wages and other operating costs, and that it would be necessary to abandon the remainder of the scheduled tour unless the 1,600 employes accepted a 25 per cent cut.

No agreement could be reached and the circus owners finally were compelled to close the show and return to winter quarters, thus adding to the roll of unemployed.

What is true in the circus business is true in other lines of employment. Unless the income is greater than the outgo the business cannot continue indefinitely—nor can more than a reasonable percentage of the income be apportioned to payment of wages to employes—many other costs of operation and maintenance must also be met and there must be a fair return on invested capital, else there would be no inducement to supply the plant, mechanical equipment and distribution facilities necessary to furnish jobs.

Private business is not like government. It cannot go further into debt indefinitely. When it fails to balance its budget it must quit.

Mental Ailments Being Recognized.

MORE attention is being given to mental diseases than ever before. A large percentage of medical research in the past has been devoted to tracing causes and finding cures for physical ailments and for advancement of surgical methods.

Recent research has provided convincing proof of the close relationship of mental and physical weaknesses and has disclosed a great field for correction of mental peculiarities that influence behavior and that, if allowed to progress, may lead to actual insanity.

In a recent talk before the American Medical Association, Dr. Henry A. Lucc, of Detroit, gave some alarming facts and constructive suggestions on this subject.

"We view with horror," he said "the development yearly of a few hundred cases of infantile paralysis, but regard with complacent stoicism the fact that at least 1,000,000 of our present school children will later spend some portion of their lives in a mental hospital.

"If one out of every 22 persons we met on the street had loss of vision or a hardup something would be done about it. Yet one out of 22 of our population may be expected to spend some part of his life in a mental institution."

A large part of this affliction, he maintains, is unnecessary. He says the basic causes of mental illness are recognizable enough today to make possible a preventive campaign conducted through the medical profession, schools and colleges, the courts, clergy, and so on. Psychiatrists alone cannot solve the problem.

He thinks much of the people's mental troubles comes from the loss of "the stabilizing influence of the true family doctor in adjusting the emotional ills of the patient." Possibly a good deal of it comes, too, from the loss of the stabilizing influence of the old-fashioned church pastor.

Safety Work Brings Results.

LAST November a group of newspaper men from some 40 American cities met in New York for a safety "seminar" sponsored by the C. I. T. Safety Foundation. They exchanged ideas with experts and each other on making highways safer. Their newspapers joined in the general national campaign for highway safety.

What has happened since then seems to prove the course successful. The traffic safety records in the cities represented show a marked improvement over last year. They have had a reduction of 29 per cent in traffic deaths and 10 per cent in non-fatal injuries. A few have done even better than that, cutting the traffic toll in half. These results are considerably above the national figure.

There is to be a similar gathering of newspaper men in July, devoting its attention to the same cause. It is expected that further progress in traffic safety will follow.

Watching Trends

WASHINGTON — Probably there are more gadget and gimmick collectors in Washington than any place else and a good reason is that the government supplies big offices and huge desks where gadgets can accumulate.

Where an ordinary $5,000-a-year executive in a business concern would have a desk only big enough for a telephone and a couple of cigar butts, the same executive in Washington might (but not certainly) have a glass-topped expanse the size of a backyard garden plot.

And how the mementoes and gadgets pile up. For instance, Admiral Land, chairman of the maritime commission, has a nautical clock in his office. It doesn't chime the hours but chimes "bells" as on a ship, so that instead of quitting work at 4 or 5 o'clock of a hot afternoon he knocks off at six bells, or maybe it is two bells of the second watch (this bell business drives us whooshy). On his desk is an anchor and the usual telephones and penholders a person has to put up with, but for the most part he keeps his desk swept up and holystoned.

* * *

Table for Donkeys.

SO MANY donkeys have accumulated for President Roosevelt that he has set aside a special table for them, leaving his own desk free for an assortment of trays, letter openers, a vase of flowers, and the prize of all — a brightly turned butt of a brass naval shell cut down to ash-tray size. A few other favored officials about the capitol have trays like it.

The nautical tone of the administration is reflected in dozens of congressional offices where members have clocks set in a ship's helm (steering wheel, to you).

Rep. Maury Maverick of Texas has a totem pole on his desk. He says it isn't a totem pole but instead is a PWA art project in wood, but we say it is a totem pole.

Nearly all the veteran Senators have their walls decorated with the originals of political cartoons sent them by the cartoonists. We haven't seen any displayed except those giving the member a boost. Senator Capper of Kansas has papered his office with photographs reaching back to the first Roosevelt days.

And a Machine Gun.

SENATOR BORAH'S desk is so piled with papers and books there is no room for anything except an ash tray put there for guests. He doesn't smoke. He has a bronze bust of himself in his office.

Delegations are forever bringing in this and that and it was a silver delegation which installed in the office of Senator Pittman of Nevada a huge silver disk inscribed with the ancient Aztec calendar.

We have never seen a wine decanter on or near a congressional desk but some spirited beverages are nearby in many offices.

Among the shoddiest offices we recall are those of the famed White House brain troops Ben Cohen and Tommy Corcoran, and they are practically gadgetless.

Senator Sheppard of Texas has fought most of his public life for prohibition. But there is not a Carrie Nation hatchet among his mementoes. Instead, as chairman of the military affairs committee, this peaceful-looking senator has decorated his desk with samples of small arms ammunition and, honest to blazes, he has a Browning machine gun mounted back of his chair, tripod and all.

Monopoly Probe to Reveal Facts

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming talks, in general, like a fairly advanced liberal. Nevertheless, he was prominent in the successful congressional fight against President Roosevelt's plan to reorganize (or, as some folk put it, to "pack") the federal supreme court. This aroused the ire of most New Dealers, who have had a spell of referring to O'Mahoney as at least a very conservative Democrat, if not an outright reactionary.

Now, however, he is leader of what commonly is described as the "monopoly investigation," to proceed during congress' adjournment period, until next January or until an extra session is called, it one IS called, earlier than that.

And the quite popular supposition is that this will be a decidedly radical quiz.

So what is the senator: A rightist or a leftist?

* * *

AS STEWART CLASSES HIM.

From the Wyoming solon's fashion of expressing himself, I would class him as a liberal, but decidedly a constructive one.

He denies that his investigation properly is a "monopoly investigation." It is, he says, an investigation of certain recently changed conditions which we must adapt ourselves to, if democracy is to survive—if we are to escape surrendering liberty in favor of hoped-for security, like Russia, Germany and Italy, in their various different ways.

"Should we Earthlings," suggests the senators, "be transported suddenly to Mars, and, having arrived there willy-nilly, refuse to modify our policies according to the necessities of Martian life, we would find that our Earthly standards did not fit Mars and that Mars did not fit our Earthly standards, either."

* * *

VAST CHANGES.

Just so here at home.

"Within the memory of men I have known personally," relates the Cheyenne lawmaker, "this was a nation with a Wild West, and with free farms or urbanites who found their industrial status unsatisfactory to them. Today, within a generation, the urbanite has no place to go if the city no longer offers employment to him."

Then the senator touches on the issue of monopoly—or corporations.

He finds no fault with little corporations, which management itself capitalizes. The ones he is somewhat skeptical of are the big ones, which the public capitalizes but which management controls.

He mentions that fewer than one-half of one per cent of all our corporations control more than 50 per cent of the capital invested in all of them.

* * *

ILLS OF CONCENTRATION.

This may be all right, the senator agrees.

But, he adds, the increase in concentration has been accompanied by an alarming increase in unemployment.

Is there any connections between the two developments?

That's a question to which the senator hopes his inquiry will furnish an answer.

* * *

INCORPORATION BILL.

Senators O'Mahoney and William E. Borah also had a bill in congress, at the last session, requiring interstate corporations to take out federal charters.

To illustrate:

Senator O'Mahoney recalls the organization of a corporation in the state of Delaware to develop oil lands in his home state of Wyoming. He does not think Delaware was the proper state in which to incorporate a company to do business in Wyoming.

* * *

SEEKS INFORMATION.

"And I believe," says Senator O'Mahoney, "that our bill (Senators O'Mahoney's and Borah's) could have been passed at the last session if we had pushed it.

"But we realized that the problem is too complicated for a one or two-man solution."

Hence the "monopoly investigation."

It is not an anti-big business "probe," Senator O'Mahoney assures us; it is a search for honest-to-goodness economic information. He is a convincing speaker.

ALL of US

—By MARSHALL MASLIN

There's a Law.

You have heard, of course, of the law of diminishing returns. I have heard of it, too, and I have seen it work. . . . It's in the books on economics where it applies to the business of making profits. But it applies, also, to man's business of getting along in the world and getting the maximum of happiness out of human happiness.

Suppose you have found a remote and lovely corner of this green earth on which you have built a cabin where you may get away from lose living with your fellows. You find peace and quiet there. You like it so much that you tell everybody you know about it. . . . Soon another man builds a cabin a mile away from you. You have divided the solitude but you have not spoiled it. Then other men come, and still others, all seeking peace and quiet. And eventually none of them have what the first and second man enjoyed. . . . The solitude is gone and the low of diminishing returns has been at work.

Even love is subject to this law . . . A man loves a woman. He wishes to guard and protect her. He toils to give her everything he believes she needs . . He surrounds her with comforts and luxuries, shields her from the world, takes all troubles upon his shoulders, shares none with her . . . Gives more and more and gets less and less as the years go by. Grows as he accepts burdens, and grows away from her. She becomes a useless human being, he a useful one . . Even in these days that ironic result is sometimes achieved. It is a version of the law of diminishing returns.

Or a man is eager to be good, to do the right thing. He watches every act, every thought, as though he were his own jailer. He is so eager for his own hard-won approval, that he loses all spontaneity, almost every rough and earthly impulse. Fearing to make a mistake, he makes the greatest mistake of all and ceases to be natural. He becomes an artificial product of his own effort and people who would love his natural self if they knew it turn indifferently away from the too-sweet character he has created. . . . Trying too hard, again he has achieved too little and is the dupe of the inexorable law of diminishing returns.

We spoil the good earth inture those we love, unsalt our own characters when we act in ignorance of that law of diminishing returns.

What 'Business' Really Does

American industry, which is being attacked by certain factions of labor and by certain groups of politicians, should begin to give the public information as to its high accomplishments. That was the advice of Edward F. McGrady, former assistant secretary of labor, in an address to the members of the Advertising Federation of America.

Mr. McGrady warns against mere propaganda. He would have industry tell the people the big things they should know. He would have the people told that industry in America, for example, has given to the one hundred million-odd people of the country a greater purchasing power than is enjoyed by the 1,500,000,000 inhabitants of Europe and Asia.

He would have the people shown that American business is not owned by a few reactionaries but by an estimated 10,000,000 stockholders. He would show the people that the 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 holders of insurance policies are indirectly interested in the fate of industry. These and similar things he would bring home to the masses through dignified propaganda.

It is only through a new flourishing of business that the American standard of living can be restored to and rise beyond the record of the past. Home work, hand work and "made" work will never get us anywhere. What we need is even higher production at even lower cost, to the end that more people may have more things with less effort than ever before.

The thing we call "business" is the only thing that can manage that, as the Roosevelt administration has demonstrated. If we are interested in prosperity, if we are interested in keeping our insurance policies unimpaired assets, if we are interested in keeping our money sound, we must work to get business back on its feet. The "evils" which the politicians dwell on were never very general. They never helped. They can be removed. The job is so to remove them that decent business is encouraged rather than hampered.

It can be done that way as easily as any other—if the people demand it and if the politicians are made to see that business is not something apart, but the very lifeblood of all the people.—Milwaukee Journal.

Listen, World!

Should Youth Take Over Government and Give Old Age the Air?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(During Independence Week, Young America Will Give Its Angle on America's Needs.)

"NO!" cries Helen Herckt.

ARE OLD FOLK FIT FOR FEDERAL JOBS . . . OR SHOULD AGE BE OUSTED AND YOUTH ASSUME THEIR JOBS?

There's a question that's guaranteed to start a scrap anywhere, any time nowadays. Time was when Gray Hairs took precedence, automatically, regardless of their record. Today the situation is reversed, and despite Friend Pitkin, Dimples win and LIFE FLOPS AT FORTY for many a trained and reliable worker.

Is that fair — or sensible? Would both Government and Big Business be better served if Age were given the air—Youth placed in charge?

"No!" cried young Helen Herckt, surprisingly taking sides against her own generation. "The idea is both cruel and stupid!"

"I have been in government service for eight years and I am happy to state that I have rarely seen an older man who wasn't ably filling his position of trust. Judged by actual years, gray hairs and stiffened joints, such men might have been rated 'old'—but they certainly weren't old from the angle of courage and competency.

"Put young men in charge of our government? NO! I regret to say that I've found my contemporaries to be poor sports, greedy and grasping, and all too willing to resort to tricks for their own advancement which older men would have despised.

"On the other hand, the older men are usually fair . . . placing loyalty to their service above personal ambition . . . good sports about shouldering blame . . . and willing to give any youngster a chance.

"I wonder if young people who advocate 'Dropping Dad' realize the consequences of their proposal. Can't they see they are breaking the hearts and spirits of those who have cared for them through childhood . . . killing them as surely as though they plunged a knife into their flesh. There's an ugly word for an act like that—PATRICIDE!

"Also consider this, Young America! If you drive Dad from his job, you must either support him or make him an object of charity.

"ARE YOU GOING TO SUPPORT HIM AS CHEERFULLY AS HE SUPPORTED YOU? OBVIOUSLY HE CAN'T RETIRE ON HIS SAVINGS BECAUSE, IN NEARLY EVERY CASE, THOSE SAVINGS HAVE GONE TO YOUR SUPPORT. WILL YOU REMEMBER THAT WHEN YOU SEE HIM SITTING IDLE . . . OR WILL YOU TREAT HIM AS A BEGGAR?

"Savages kill their old. But we, who are supposed to be civilized, should appreciate ours and be grateful for the tact and tolerance and tempered wisdom which only comes from age. SOME DAY WE MAY BE OLD OURSELVES! LET'S PREPARE FOR IT BY MAKING AGE A BEAUTIFUL, VALUED PERIOD, INSTEAD OF TREATING IT AS A DISEASE OR CRIME."

Helen Herckt, 27 years,
Long Island City, N. Y.

Fine sentiments, my dear, which do you much credit. But being 55 myself, I'm forced to admit that there are certain things to be said on the other side. This respect for Age theory listens lovely—but, in reality, it has coddled more cussedness and prompted more peevishness and stupidity than any other device of the devil. Old Age, per se, is no guarantee of worth . . . no cause for reverence. Wisdom does not automatically accompany varicose veins. It must be worked for, at any age. And the man who won't keep fit is unworthy of respect and responsibility, whether he be 60 years or 6 months old.

"HAVE YOU WHAT IT TAKES?" That, says I, should be the test of any mortal at any age and the proof of his fitness to hold his position.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Bud, you're wrong about everybody loving a fat man! They don't; not in New York at least. I didn't believe it either when I first heard about it, but after talking with people who are usually reliably informed on such matters there isn't anything for me to do but believe it. Let's analyze the story anyway.

Some time ago, it seems, a special gymnasium opened in the midtown sector. They specialized in shaving off extra poundage, and one of the claims was a money-back guarantee if the fat didn't fade, and right where you wanted it to fade.

To make it even more alluring they instituted the little custom of having their clients' suits pressed, free of charge, while they, the clients, were breaking their hearts for dear old avoirdupois. You can easily understand how grateful they must have felt to find their duds with a knife's edge crease after wrestling with the medicine ball for an hour.

* * *

NOW, let's take the case of Joe. Joe's our guinea pig for today. Joe went to the gym and stripped; he had a couple trainers beat the dickens out of him, chase him till he had spots before his eyes, salt him down, cram him into a steam vat, and then dunk him into an icy pool.

Then Joe, trembling and exhausted, was hauled onto a set of scales that had been "fixed." Boy, that was great stuff. He was 11 pounds lighter. He could actually "feel" the surplus weight disappear.

Next they led old Joe to the dressing room, and there sure enough were his clothes, neatly sponged and pressed. Joe climbed into his trousers. Gee, look at those pants! They were two inches two large. Much more of this and he'd be a walking shadow.

Oozing good nature Joe slipped into his coat. Well, the coat simply hung on him in folds. He couldn't believe it. He was jubilant.

Yes, sir, he'd tell the world what a wonderful thing they were doing for business men who were too concerned with world affairs to take the proper exercise. He'd have all his friends down. No more of the wobbly fat for old Joe. No more bulging in the wrong places. No triple chins and extravagant waistlines.

And for only $10? Dirt cheap, if you asked him. Like taking candy from a baby.

* * *

THEY tell me lots of candy was thus obtained before the bottom fell out of the get-thin-quick racket.

But one day, one of the numerous Joes who had been "pared down" to skin and bones happened to observe a rent in the seam of his coat. He couldn't understand a thing like that, the coat being new. He picked it up and looked at it. Suddenly beserk, a wild gleam in his eyes, he flung the coat on the floor and jumped up and down on it. Then he called the police. The little "courtesy" press at the gym had been on the level all right. But they neglected to mention that with it went a little alteration, also free of charge.

Book Vacation.

Someone remarked recently that he had no vacation plans except he was going to sit down, relax and read a lot of books he had been planning to get into for a long time.

Frankly, we can imagine no better or more satisfactory way of spending a vacation. Of course, it would not be well to keep the nose buried in a book all the time, as that would become tiresome, but it is an excellent way to take a refreshing rest.

Of course, the subject matter selected would depend upon the individual. There are some who would not be happy unless reading weighty works, involving a high degree of concentration. Others prefer the more romantic books of travel. They want to visit strange places, riding on the shoulders of an author who has had the time and energy at his disposal to see them. There are others who find genuine recreation in poring through mystery and detective yarns.

An armful of books, a good comfortable chair or swing, a pitcher of cold beverage perspiring comfortably on a handy table, and you have the ingredients of a first-class vacation.—Ohio State Journal.

Everyday Poems

This Heals and Rests.

This heals and rests me, though I am
So body tired tonight,
This fact, that I have done the best
I could, this is a light,

Against the dark. At dawn I feared
I could not go the day
My usual round, perform my tasks
In an accepted way.

But as I tried, new strength was mine,
From whence I do not know,
And only this, it was a fact,
And very surely so.

And now as dark comes down and I
My tasks complete, indeed
Find this: the doing of them heals
And rests me, fills my need.

HERE'S PICTURE OF BARCELONA WITH A WAR ON

There's Some Amusement and Fair Food in Spite of Bitter Civil War.

(By Associated Press)

BARCELONA, Spain — The spine-chilling wails of the sirens warning of air raids and the hoarse, excited roars of anti-aircraft batteries are daily—and nightly — routine for Barcelona, like the crash of artillery shells for Madrid.

Life in the capital of government Spain adjusts itself around the insurgent air raids just as it does for the hot sun of noon and the starry nights of Spain's third summer of war.

Despite the rationing of light, the 9 p. m. curfew, the scarcity of transport, the meagreness of wartime food, some of Barcelona's old life remains. The sidewalk cafes serving synthetic vermouth and coffee still are crowded.

Entertainment Goes On.

Cinema theaters are well patronized, although they still are showing picture which came to Spain before the war began.

Dog racing and the various forms of jai alai, where betting is loud and complicated, are popular. There is amateur football, boxing, swimming. Six or eight theaters show drama, musical comedy and vaudeville.

Food for the man with a job is adequate, but not very tempting. Popular restaurants under state control sell meals for five and ten pesetas (nominally 30 to 60 cents). Almost everyone has some way of getting a little more than the official ration, either through an extra ration card or a friend in the country.

Yet outside factories, barracks and hospitals there nearly always are little queues or ragged women and children with pots and pans, waiting for handouts of leftovers.

Wine has almost disappeared, for lack of transport. Beer vanished months ago. Bread is rationed strictly. Rice, beans, vegetables and fruits in season and limited meat and fish make up the menu.

Despite the pegging of food and other prices, the value of the peseta abroad continues to fall. Hence imports are less and less. Great gaps appear in shop windows.

War News Cut Down.

Newspapers after nearly two years of war print less war news than ever, nothing but the short communique issued nightly by the ministry of defense. They are rigidly consored and recently three papers were suspended for disobeying orders.

The government's censorship extends, of course, to the dispatches of foreign correspondents. Even information in the local papers is slashed from the cablegrams.

The locations of places bombed, names of all but the highest military officers and judicial proceedings are among subjects most recently put under ban.

Courts and secret military police function as fairly as possible in time of war. Defense attorneys are permitted and there is a surprising ratio of acquittals in the group espionage trials.

Prison and work camp sentences range from several months to 30 years but are commonly accepted as meaning only the duration of the war. Death sentences may be appealed and must be approved finally by the cabinet.

75 Years Ago Today—

Lee Abandons Harrisburg Drive, Makes Gettysburg Focal Point

Changes Plans; Union Army Placed Under General Meade.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of a series of daily "battlefield dispatches" by Dr. Freeman, editor of the Richmond News Leader and distinguished author, telling the story of Gettysburg just as it was developing 75 years ago today.

By DR. DOUGLAS S. FREEMAN

Hdqrs. Army of Northern Virginia, Chambersburg, Pa., June 29, 1863 (7 P. M.)—This Army is on the move again and has abandoned its offensive against Harrisburg.

Despite the continued absence of Stuart's cavalry, which embarrasses every phase of operations, General Lee has learned enough about the movements of the enemy to induce him to change his plan of campaign and to order a concentration of all his forces near Gettysburg.

Last night, about 10 o'clock, one of General Longstreet's trusted spies arrived at headquarters from Frederick. The information brought by him was so important that Longstreet sent him immediately to General Lee.

Maj. Gen. George G. Meade
He must protect Washington

At first the commanding General was indisposed to talk with the spy, because of his own distrust of civilians who work within the lines of the enemy, but, after a little delay, he was in conference. When the spy left the general's tent, he was placed under guard and was not permitted to talk, but from orders that were issued immediately, it was manifest that General Lee accepted his information as accurate.

Federals in the Rear.

Apparently, the spy told General Lee that the Army of the Potomac was encamped in great strength around Frederick, in position to move against Lee's rear or to interpose itself between the Confederate forces and the rich cities of the east. Although General Lee has kept his plans secret, it is manifest that he has recalled Ewell's Second corps from its advance on Harrisburg, in order that he may have all his troops at hand when he meets the enemy.

It is understood, also, that A. P. Hill's Third corps has received marching orders and that Longstreet's First corps will take the road tomorrow by way of Cashtown for Gettysburg.

The spy who came to headquarters is said to have brought information that Maj. Gen. George G. Meade has succeeded Maj. Gen. Joseph Hooker as commander of the Army of the Potomac. Reports to this effect have been in circulation all day and have been credited. This afternoon, some of General Lee's officers made bold to ask him what he thought of the newest change in the leadership of the opposing army.

General Lee replied frankly that he believed the Federal army would gain by the promotion of Meade, but that the improvement would be offset temporarily by the difficulties of taking charge of an army in the midst of a campaign.

"General Meade," said Lee, "will commit no blunder in my front, and if I make one, he will make haste to take advantage of it."

Spirits High.

The men in the ranks are more amused than excited over the reported change of Federal commanders. Within the last nine months, the Confederates have seen President Lincoln try in the east successfully McClellan, Burnside and Hooker. All have failed.

Naturally, the veterans of the Army of Northern Virginia believe their own leader is more capable than any man the North has sent or will send against them.

Nothing therefore has happened today to shake the confidence of the army. It is believed that General Ewell will bring up Jackson's old "foot cavalry" in time to help win another great victory.

The one concern is over the prolonged absence of the cavalry corps. Everyone is asking the same question: "Where is Stuart?" Is he with Ewell? Has he sensed the probability that the coming conflict will be at Gettysburg? Nobody knows. General Lee's last word of Stuart dates from the 27th. Much may have happened since then.

BULLETIN

Headquarters, Army of the Potomac, Middleburg, Md., June 29, 1863 — Our army moved north a few miles today, slowly following the Rebel invaders.

Meade realizes that another major victory for the Confederates might prove disastrous. Orders from Washington have placed upon him a double responsibility. They read in part:

"You will keep in view the important fact that The Army of the Potomac is the covering army of Washington, as well as the army of operation against the invading forces of the rebels.

"You will, therefore, maneuver and fight in such a manner as to cover the capital, and also Baltimore as far as circumstances will permit."

SUES SON TO RECOVER LAND

Woman Seeking to Regain Title, Says He Broke Agreement.

In an action to recover title to an acre of land in Monroe township, Mrs. Millie Harris Lenhart today had filed a suit in common pleas court against her son, Floyd J. Harris of Ashland, accusing him of failing to comply with an agreement by which he obtained the property.

Mrs. Lenhart asserts in her petition that she transferred the lot to Harris after he promised to care for her 13-year-old daughter and his sister. He has failed to provide for the child, she contends.

Ski School or Reno Divorce?

Paulette Goddard

Paulette and Charlie in other days

Could Paulette Goddard's mission to Reno, Nev., the divorce capital, be a divorce from Charlie Chaplin? Or is it to establish a ski school as she says it is? Friends and movie fans wonder as the actress takes the news spotlight with her Reno engagement. There still has been no confirmation that Chaplin and Miss Goddard are married. Her name has been linked with the comedian since 1934, when he brought her before the film public as his leading woman.

57 QUALIFY TO TAKE CITY EXAM

Civil Service Tests for Class A Muny Jobs to Be Given Tonight, Tomorrow.

Fifty-seven Mansfielders today had qualified to take the civil service examinations for municipal class A positions which will be held tonight and tomorrow night at the city building, Atty. George Biddle, secretary of the civil service commission, said today.

Biddle said that 57 applications had been received by the commission and that all the number had successfully passed the physical examination for the jobs which include truck drivers, equipment drivers and helpers.

The examinations will be conducted at 7 p. m. in the municipal court rooms.

Examination papers will be graded in the next two weeks and all applicants who have attained a grade of 70 or over will be placed on the civil service eligible list, Biddle said. Certifications for filling the various class A positions will be forwarded to Mayor Claude M. Hunter.

FREE 6 HOURS

O. S. R. Inmate Captured by Guards While Walking.

A Mansfield reformatory trusty was back in the institution with two years added to his sentence after only six brief hours of freedom yesterday.

The inmate, Herman Allshouse, 18, was captured by institution guards as he hiked along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks five miles northwest of the reformatory at 7 p. m. He escaped at 1 p. m. yesterday from the institution grounds outside the prison walls where he was at work as a trusty.

Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke said Allshouse's sentence had been extended the usual two years as penalty for his short fling at freedom.

Allshouse was committed to the institution Jan. 7 from Portage county to serve from one to 20 years for auto theft.

SHIP SILVER

Treasury Set for Transfer of 1,500 Millions in Bullion.

WASHINGTON— (U P) —Treasury officials have completed plans for the secret transfer of about $1,500,000,000 of silver bullion from east coast cities to a new depository at West Point, N. Y.

Formal contracts will be awarded soon to a private trucking firm for the task of moving 1,000,000 bars of silver weighing 72 pounds each. The trucks—carrying the most precious cargo ever entrusted to a private concern by the government—will be guarded by an army of secret service agents and private police.

A large portion of the bullion will be moved from vaults in New York City to the new depository, near the United States Military academy, which was completed recently at a cost of $526,000.

'Finest Funeral I Ever Had!'

Declaring it his "only and last funeral," Uncle Felix (Bush) Breazeale, aged patriarch of eastern Tennessee, sits beside his own empty, flower-banked, home-made coffin, surrounded by 8,000 curious spectators, and hears his own funeral sermon preached in a church near Knoxville, by the Rev. Charles E. Jackson of Paris, Ill., who came all the way for the ceremony. "It was the finest funeral I ever heard," Bush said after the ceremony as he was mobbed by autograph hunters. The funeral was a financial success, as hawkers sold programs, soft drinks, peanuts and sandwiches.

SERVES OUT FINE

Premature Celebrator, Unable to Pay, Goes to Jail.

A premature Fourth of July celebration today had resulted in a Galion man going to county jail to serve out a fine for disorderly conduct.

Arraigned in municipal court yesterday, Ted Burns, 26, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $20 and costs. Unable to pay he was taken to jail. Sheriff's deputies testified that Burns had been discharging firecrackers at Greter's lake Sunday and when reproved became abusive in his language towards the officers.

JULY 4TH IN 1776

What a day that must have been . . . a day of climax for an independence minded group of colonies . . and in Philadelphia the solemn and fateful Congress in what is now Independence Hall. What a joyous scene must have taken place when the Liberty Bell tolled it's glad message!

At that time and during the Revolution that followed, Insurance played its important part in finance, industry and commerce . . . and a part that in the succeeding years has become increasingly important and of greater scope. Today, as a modern descendant of those original insurance companies, LINCOLN and CONTINENTAL salutes the past with a great feeling of gratitude for those who so securely founded our democratic institutions.

Buy the Things You Want and Can Afford To Have

(An Editorial Suggesting the First Essential To Recovery)

THERE'S too much inactive money in banks, building and loans, or stored away in other non-productive ways.

Too much emphasis has been placed on the number of people who are UNEMPLOYED and too little thought has been given to the much greater number of millions who have been regularly employed throughout the so-called depression and who have not only made a living for themselves and their families but have been putting away a surplus—in readiness for use at some future time.

This 1938 depression, following the upward movement of last year, has been more mental than material.

Widespread fear and uncertainty have resulted in subnormal buying by many people who could as well afford commodity and luxury buying as at any other time.

This condition exists in Mansfield, and quite likely extends into every part of the country.

The failure of any particular individual to buy things needed by himself or his family does not seem particularly important—yet when this is extended to millions of people who can afford to buy, but who do not do so, the result is an industrial and general business let-down which causes increased unemployment and, therefore, a "depression."

Taxes are high—taxes have always been regarded as "too high"—but, after all, taxes are essential in providing various services and bestowing public benefits which have become requirements of modern standards of living. If there is later need for less taxes that is a matter to be taken care of when the time comes.

We are now dealing with 1938 and existing conditions. There can be no waiting for some chimerical future time; for a change in state or federal administration; for lower taxes; for greater social security or for some magic formula to eliminate unemployment.

For some unaccountable reason, one week-end last fall, there was a sudden slump in consumer-buying—just as if by agreement among millions of people in all parts of the country.

It was not a pre-arranged "buyers' strike"—it was merely that a mental wave of fear and uncertainty of the future had spread among millions of employed people over the nation and each decided to hold on to surplus earnings rather than buy in a normal way.

The inescapable result was that manufactured products were left in warehouses, or in the hands of retailers; factories were required to cut production, thus throwing thousands of men and women out of employment, and total estimated national earnings for the year 1938 took a downward plunge of approximately twelve billion dollars—the difference between what is termed "depression" and what could properly be referred to as a fair measure of prosperity.

Looking at Mansfield and Richland county as a small section of the national picture—the part that can be played locally in bringing "better times" is for the regularly employed and well-to-do thousands of people in this city and county to immediately resume normal buying of necessary commodities and desirable luxuries for themselves and for use in their homes—with preference, of course, for patronizing home merchants and also for the products of Mansfield factories.

There has been postponement of buying clothing, furniture, floor coverings, draperies, electrical conveniences of various kinds—as well as numberless other large and small items.

Construction of new homes, or remodeling of old ones, has been "put off" from month to month—or from year to year.

Out-dated automobiles have been continued in use by motorists who can well afford a new car.

All of these things have contributed to the general slow-down of industry and business—thus encouraging, rather than dispelling, the reign of fear that has engulfed so much of the nation and caused over-emphasis of relief problems and taxation burdens.

If normal buying is resumed; if money is put in use by individuals, to the extent of their reasonable purchasing power; if despondency gives way to justifiable optimism in the minds of millions of people who are working and earning—then this year's upturn can come as quickly as last year's slump.

Money is of no earthly good—EXCEPT FOR USE!

Thrift is desirable—because it results in accumulating a surplus intended to supply future needs.

If spending were confined to absolute essentials there could be no "prosperity"—such as America has known—nor could there be a maintenance of "American standards of living," or extension of these "standards" to a steadily increasing percentage of the population of this country.

"EARN, SPEND, SAVE," is a formula under which individual and national progress is assured.

If you are working and earning NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY!
